BEGIN THE CANADA BUILDING IN FALL

Exhibit From Dominion for Panama Exhibition to Show
Natural Resources

EDIFICE WILL COST ABOUT HALF MILLION

No Promise of Reconsideration
Held Out to British
Member of Parliament

ITALY AND AUSTRALIA
UNCERTAIN OVER FAIR

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—Canada's plans for participation at the Pacific exposition at San Francisco are in a formative stage, but the exhibit it was learned to-day at the department of agriculture will be on much the same lines as similar exhibitions elsewhere. The natural resources of the country will, of course, be the basis of the showing to be made.

A year ago William Hutcheson, Dominion exhibition commissioner, went to San Francisco on the instruction of the Hon. Martin Burrell, minister of agriculture, and selected a site for the Canada building. It is the intention to start construction work this fall.

It will be of a design in keeping with the importance of the country. In featuring the natural resources of the Dominion there will be exhibits of all kinds of wheat and grain, fruit, in natural and preserved forms; vegetables, minerals, all kinds of wood produced in Canada, including pulp, fish, game, fur-bearing animals mounted, and fair exhibits along the same lines.

Manufacturers wishing to display their products will, from present plans, be accommodated in the Canadian building. Several of the provinces will have exhibits of their own in conjunction with the main one. The building will cost in the neighborhood of $500,000.

As previously stated, the commercial reasons which have precluded Great Britain participating in the exposition do not apply to Canada. It not only is close-by, but naturally stands to reap greater results from the advertising such events afford, than could be possible with the Mother Country.

London, Aug. 11.—An effort to revive the plan of British participation in the Panama-Pacific Exposition at San Francisco was made to-day in the House of Commons by Col. A. E. Gibbs, a Unionist member. Mr. Gibbs asked Sidney Buxton, president of the board of trade, for reasons for withholding British official recognition of the exposition. He put the following question:

"Is view of the importance attached to the Panama-Pacific exposition by Americans will the board of trade reconsider its decision?"

Mr. Buxton referred his question to Sir Edward Grey and held out no promise of re-consideration of the British government's attitude.

London, Aug. 11.—A dispatch to the Daily Chronicle from Melbourne says the attitude of the Australian states, except Victoria, and New South Wales toward the Panama exposition is still uncertain owing to what is regarded as the extraordinary action of Great Britain in declining to participate. The correspondent at Rome of the Times says he learned that it is now unlikely that Italy will participate in the fair. Sir Thomas Lipton in a letter to the Times strongly advocates that Great Britain be officially represented at San Francisco. He argues that a reduction in the tariff will give opportunities for trade competition never before anticipated, and therefore there is a greater necessity for British official representation at San Francisco than there was at the Chicago or St. Louis expositions.

THREE POISONED BY GAS IN CABIN OF SCHOONER

Montreal, Que., Aug. 11.—A strange disaster is announced here from Longue Pointe, Mangan, on the Labrador coast. A schooner arrived there on Saturday and three dead passengers were found in her cabin. Their names are Mr. and Mrs. James Bobbett, of Bale des Moutons, and Mrs. Charles Vignault, of Matashquan. Gas poisoning is given as the cause of death and the coroner's inquest is found to this effect.

FINANCIAL CONDITION EASIER.

London, Aug. 11.—Before sailing home on Saturday, Sir Edmund Walker, president of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, said that the financial position generally was easier and there was a growing renewal of confidence in Canadian investments. Sir John Wesley Courts and others, who desire to encourage the investment of Welsh capital in the Dominion, also called on the Royal George.

OTTAWA SEES PREMIER NEXT AGENT-GENERAL

London, Aug. 11.—A cable from Ottawa to-day to the Daily Telegraph says: "It is stated in Ottawa that Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, will resign, to succeed Hon. J. H. Turner as agent-general in London." The cablegram is viewed skeptically here. Hon. J. H. Turner is not in town, but his son informed the Canadian Associated Press that he has heard of no such arrangement. He said that his father had never been in better health than at present.

SESSION UNLIKELY TILL NEXT JANUARY

Members of Cabinet Have Various Engagements In West and Abroad

USE CLOSURE RULES TO RUSH BUSINESS

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 11.—It is not likely that consideration of matters pertaining to the sessional programme will be taken up for some weeks yet. It will be well on to September before the majority of the ministers will be in the capital.

Premier Borden proposes to be here most of the time, but will take a few weeks and trips. Hon. W. T. White will probably carry out his intention of making a visit to the west after his return from England. Hon. Sam Hughes leaves for England on August 20, and Hon. Mr. Crothers is also likely to go abroad. Hon. Dr. Roche and Hon. Louis Coderre will spend several weeks in the west. Hon. J. D. Hazen, who has been as far north as Dawson city, will be back in Ottawa about September 1, and Hon. Robert Rogers, who has been in Winnipeg, will be back in the capital about August 25. Towards the end of the month Hon. Frank Cochrane will leave for an extended tour of northern Ontario.

The plans of the ministers indicate a January sitting of the House, and that the government proposes to depend upon the application of the new closure rules to put through its sessional programme. The matter has not as yet been definitely settled, but all the ministers in the city seem inclined to the view that the House will not meet till January.

PREPARE PLANS FOR VANCOUVER DRY-DOCK

Will Have Lifting Capacity Fifteen Thousand Tons, and Cost Nearly $2,500,000

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—Plans are being prepared and will be placed before the public works department during the next few weeks for a floating dry-dock on Burrard Inlet with a lifting capacity of 15,000 tons. The dock will cost nearly $2,500,000 and will be fully equipped with engineering works which will enable it to handle repairs to the largest liners at present entering the port of Vancouver.

A formal application for the second-class dry-dock subsidy of 8 1/2 per cent has been applied for, and when the plans are completed they will be reported upon by the chief engineer of the department.

The Amalgamated Dry-Dock and Engineering Company is the title of the concern which proposes to construct and operate the dock, but such a company has not yet taken out incorporation papers. The scheme is looked upon favorably by the government. The necessity for a big dry-dock at Vancouver has been often pressed by marine interests there.

ALL ITALY ON STRIKE GARRISON HELD READY

Milan, Aug. 11.—A general strike throughout Italy was proclaimed in a manifesto issued to-day by the Syndicalist and Socialist workmen's organizations here.

Rome, Aug. 11.—The authorities here are holding the garrison in readiness to repress any disorders in connection with the general strike order by labor leaders. Both the Quirinal and the Vatican are strongly guarded.

HOT NEW YORK SUNDAY

New York, Aug. 11.—With the temperature at 103 degrees in many parts of the city Sunday, New York experienced its hottest Sunday of the summer. Humidity and hot breezes added to the suffering.

GRAPHIC AND TIMES HOLD ADVERSE VIEWS

Meddlesomeness is Opinion of
One While Other Encourages

LIND ARRIVES SAFELY AT MEXICAN CAPITAL

President Believes Organized
Attempts Made to Cause
War With Republic

GOVERNOR'S VISIT IS DEVOID OF THRILLS

London, Aug. 11.—In an editorial to-day the Daily Graphic says: "The mission of John Lind to Mexico has all the disadvantages of meddlesomeness without the advantage of intervention. It can have no terrors for President Huerta because no force is behind it, and prudent men will be thankful if it only fails decently."

The Times editorially agrees that President Wilson is acting entirely within his rights, and says that it would be good policy on the part of the Mexican government to listen to Mr. Lind's representations in the spirit in which they are made and not irritate United States officials by sticking about punctilios. "President Wilson," the editorial continues, has shown great moderation and earnest desire to refrain as much as possible from intervention, and Americans for the most part would be delighted to see Mexico settle her own quarrels in an amicable way.

Washington, Aug. 11.—President Wilson let it be known to-day that he was inclined to believe there was an organized desire, proceeding from sources unknown to him, to bring on a war between the United States and Mexico. The president does not regard the movement as extensive but as very troublesome, and referred to misrepresentations in some individual newspapers.

John Lind, the personal representative of President Wilson to investigate the Mexican situation, arrived safely in Mexico City last night, according to a dispatch received at the state department from Charge O'Shaughnessy, of the United States embassy, at an early hour this morning. Secretary Bryan remained at his desk until after midnight to receive the news.

News of the safe arrival of Mr. Lind with his wife and party in the Mexican capital followed several hours of suspense. The complete absence of any information of the progress of the party from the time it left Vera Cruz early yesterday morning, added to the uncertainty which was heightened by vague rumors of attacks on Mr. Lind and his family and assistants.

Mexico, Aug. 11.—The arrival of Governor John Lind, whose mysterious mission to Mexico was the direct cause of a public manifestation Sunday in support of General Huerta's attitude toward administrative mediation, has been devoid of any thrills. When Mr. Lind, as the personal representative of President Wilson, alighted from his train last night after a tedious day's journey from Vera Cruz, there were only a few persons about the station. Mr. Lind persistently maintained that tactfully which he has observed since he was summoned from his home in Minnesota to undertake his present mission.

Just what he is to do here or just when he will begin the negotiations for which he has come are as great a mystery as before his arrival.

DIES SUDDENLY IN HOTEL AT VANCOUVER

G. R. Evans, Recently in Victoria, Expires From Hemorrhage During Night

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—Lying partly under the bed in a pool of blood, G. R. Evans, a middle-aged Englishman, a pensioner of the Lancashire & Yorkshire railway, was found by the night clerk of the Grandview hotel in a room Sunday morning. While the room was in great disorder and the door locked, the police do not anticipate either foul play or suicide, but think that the man died from a severe hemorrhage of the lungs, a doctor who was summoned having given this as his diagnosis. When found he had been dead apparently about four hours. Mr. Evans registered on his arrival the day before as coming from San Francisco, and among his effects was found a ticket from Montreal to Liverpool. Several baggage checks from Victoria indicated that he had been in that city recently. Pension papers from the railway company made out in his name indicated that he must have been an employee of the Lancaster & Yorkshire Company for some years.

CASTRO'S RELATIVE IN HANDS OF GOVERNMENT

Prisoners Taken After Attack on City of Macara; Fighting In Tacahira.

Caracas, Aug. 11.—General Torres Castro, a relative of former President Cipriano Castro, was captured on Friday by the government troops commanded by Generals Sotegayas Sayago and Bustamante, according to an official communication.

A number of General Torres Castro's officers, who had fled to the mountains of Macara after the defeat of Castro's adherents on July 23, when they attacked the government forces in the city of Macara, also were taken prisoners.

Fighting continues in the state of Tacahira. The army of government troops reached Maracay on Friday under the command of President Juan Vicente Gomez.

The United States cruiser Des Moines was due to arrive in Venezuelan waters. The archbishop of Caracas to-day instructed the clergy to pray for peace.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS IN REBELLIOUS CHINA

Lu King Now Within Northern Lines
But Disorders Remain Unquieted at Nanking.

Washington, Aug. 11.—General improvement in conditions in the rebellious district of China was reported to the navy department yesterday in a cable dispatch from Rear-Admiral Nicholson, commanding the Pacific fleet at Nanking.

"The present uprising," reported Admiral Nicholson, "has met with failure up to the present and the Northern troops have been uniformly successful but the country is far from pacified. Ku Ling is now within the Northern lines and the conditions are satisfactory there. Nanking has renounced adherence to the South, but disorders are threatened here owing to the large number of troops formerly with the Southern armies not now attached on either side."

"A United States steamer was fired on by the Southerners at Chenglin. Ample reparation has been made."

TWO MEN KILLED WHEN WORKING UNDER ENGINE

Regina, Sask., Aug. 11.—Carelessness of operation accounted for the loss of two more lives on the G. T. F. south of Regina Friday night. A machinist named McQueen and his assistant, Lars Oscar Walberg, were out on pieces, and a third man seriously injured. The men were working under an engine which for some reason was left unprotected by signals, when another engine bumped them.

Arbitration by Belgium, Holland or Switzerland to Follow in Event of Disagreement on Frontier; Demobilization Begins Immediately; Service in Cathedral and Gala Dinner Marked Occasion; Bulgarians Decline King Charles' Decorations

Bucharest, Aug. 11.—The peace treaty between the Balkan states was signed at 11.30 o'clock yesterday. The city was decorated with flags, guns were fired, bells were rung and the bands played.

A solemn te deum in the cathedral at noon was attended by King Charles, Queen Elizabeth (Carmen Sylvia) and the members of the royal family and delegates to the peace conference. King Charles conferred decorations on all the delegates except the Bulgarians, who declined them.

The peace treaty provides that the Roumanian army shall evacuate Bulgarian territory within fifteen days after its signature and the Serbian and Greek armies in three days.

It also provides for arbitration by Belgium, Holland or Switzerland in the event of disagreement over the limitation of the new frontier. Bulgaria expects to begin demobilization at once.

A gala dinner to the peace delegates was given at the royal palace last night. King Charles in a stirring speech, congratulated the representatives of the various states on the conclusion of peace, which he said involved great sacrifices, and he expressed the hope that a new era of mutual confidence and prosperity would arise and make all forget the sad past.

KING CHARLES CREDITS EMPEROR WITH RESULT

Berlin, Aug. 11.—Prior to the signing of the peace treaty yesterday congratulatory messages were exchanged between Emperor William and the King of Roumania, in which the German Emperor thanked King Charles for his work in bringing about peace. King Charles on the other hand gave the Emperor credit for the peace treaty.

TURKEY EVASIVE IN REPLYING TO POWERS

Constantinople, Aug. 11.—The Porte to-day made an evasive reply to the recent note of the powers in which a threat was made that the powers would withdraw their moral and financial support from Turkey unless the Ottoman government ordered its troops to retire within the Enos-Media line in accordance with the treaty of London.

PRISONER SHOT WHEN ATTEMPTING TO ESCAPE

Albert Winn Makes Unsuccessful Dash for Liberty From Jail at Nelson.

Nelson, B. C., Aug. 11.—As the prisoners at the provincial jail came out for exercise Sunday, Albert Winn, who has served six months of a 12 months sentence for taking $500 from an unlocked safe at Kimberly, made a bold break for liberty. He had fixed nails in the toes of his boots to aid in climbing, and darted to the high fence which surrounds the jail grounds and scrambled to the top.

Special Guard Miller, armed with a loaded shotgun, was on duty at the lookout tower, and as Winn reached the top of the wall he fired. Winn dropped wounded to the ground, and was carried into the jail. He has some half-a-hundred shots in his body, some of them having penetrated to a depth of one to three inches, one of which is believed to have pierced his kidneys.

A pointed dagger, made from the handle of a bucket was found concealed on his person.

SULZER ADMITS USE OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Governor of New York May Not Be Impeached but May Face Indictment.

New York, Aug. 11.—There is a bare chance that Governor Sulzer may not be impeached, and that his indictment on the charge of perjury or violation of the corrupt practices act will be sought instead. The Frawley committee is divided on the question of impeachment or indictment, a member of the committee said yesterday and will meet to-day to consider which course to follow. It is expected to make a report to-day when the state legislature reconvenes in Albany.

All of the committeemen are convinced of the governor's guilt. They are so satisfied with the revelations of Sulzer's use of the campaign money in stock speculation that not one of them sees the need of more evidence of wrong-doing.

Governor Sulzer gave out a brief statement last night in Albany in which he denies having speculated in Wall street, but admitted having made temporary personal use of the home campaign contributions.

RUSSIA TO ENTER IN TRADE COMPETITION

Professor Goldstein on Official Visit
From Atlantic to Pacific Coasts.

Ottawa, Aug. 11.—On an official visit to the Dominion which will take him to the Pacific coast, where he will probably meet the Dominion minister of trade and commerce, Professor J. M. Goldstein arrived here to-day. He is head of the Moscow School of Commerce and hopes to further trade between Russia and Canada both by Atlantic routes, the Panama canal and by direct steamships between Victoria and Vladivostok.

He said that with the opening of the Panama canal it might be taken for granted that Russia would establish a line of steamers between her own shores and Vancouver. He stated frankly that Russia would be in the market to compete with Australian imports to Canada and that in return there was no reason why Russia should not take large quantities of goods manufactured in the Dominion. Several steamship companies had reported favorably, he stated, on the Vladivostok-Vancouver and Panama routes.

MAJOR-GEN. DARTNELL DEAD.

London, Aug. 11.—The death is announced of Major-General Sir John George Dartnell, K. C. B., O. M. G., at his residence, Westbourne Gardens, Folkestone. He was born in London, Ont., in 1833.

Sir John entered the army in 1855 and served all the world over. He was severely wounded during the Boer war and was on two occasions mentioned in despatches.

Third Attempt to Capture Premier Asquith's House Frustrated on Sunday

SYLVIA PANKHURST IS PLACED UNDER ARREST

Mounted Officers Ride Down
Women and Children Without Discrimination

LEADER IS REPORTED TO BE BADLY INJURED

London, Aug. 11.—The third attempt of the suffragettes under command of Miss Sylvia Pankhurst, to take Premier Asquith's house in Downing street by storm failed Sunday when the militant leader was captured by a cordon of police thrown across Whitehall after a stiff fight in which the police used their clubs.

The trouble began after a mass meeting held under the auspices of the Free Speech Defense committee, which was called to demand the unconditional release of George Lansbury, former Socialist member of the House, who was sentenced July 20 to three months imprisonment for making inflammatory speeches, but was released August 2 under the "Cat and Mouse Act" while on a hunger strike.

Miss Pankhurst had refused an invitation to make a speech at this meeting when informed that she would not be permitted to urge her hearers to march upon Downing street. Three speakers advised the crowd not to attack the Premier's residence, but at the close of her meeting, Miss Pankhurst, true to her promise made last week, mounted the base of the Nelson Column and in fiery language urged her sympathizers to follow her.

Hatless and with her hair bound close to her head, the young militant leader started down Whitehall surrounded by several women carrying the Women's Social and Political Union flag surmounted by a liberty cap, and preceded by a flying wedge of dockmen and other husky east-enders. Reserves of police rushed up and the militants attacked the regular line of police, and Miss Pankhurst and five others were arrested and taken to jail. Disheartened at the arrest of their leader the mob suddenly dispersed. Blaming the suffragettes for many months of enforced Sunday work, the police cleared the streets with unusual roughness, mounted officers riding down women and children without discrimination.

Miss Cook, who carried a suffragette banner during the fight, said last night that Miss Pankhurst was badly injured during the melee.

The morning service at Westminster Abbey was attended by 20 suffragettes, who repeated the scenes at St. Paul's of a week ago.

They were ejected with but slight disorder. Seventeen militant suffragettes were sentenced to-day to terms of imprisonment ranging from a week to two months as a sequel to the attempt to storm Premier Asquith's residence.

Sylvia Pankhurst, leader of the storming party, was not among the prisoners, as she had been taken direct to Holloway jail to serve another portion of her previous sentence.

MEDICAL DELEGATES GO TO SUFFRAGE MEETING

London, Aug. 11.—Foreign delegates to the medical conference occupied front seats at the meeting to-day of the Women's Social and Political Union, the militant suffragette organ. Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst was present, attended by a nurse. She made a brief speech, which lacked the fire and militancy of her previous addresses. She welcomed the doctors, saying she supposed "our foreign friends are trying to understand the strange movement that is sweeping the whole world and making the so-called weaker sex able to go through experiences which would have been deemed incredible a few years ago."

ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH DESTROYED AT NANAIMO

Nanaimo, Aug. 11.—St. Matthew's church and rectory at Wellington, six miles from this city, were destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon, involving a total property loss of $5,000, without one cent insurance. The fire started on the roof of the rectory, presumably from a spark from the rectory chimney, and owing to the high wind prevailing at the time it was impossible to save even the furniture. St. Matthew's church was built in 1881, the first minister being the Rev. J. W. Flinton, who was followed by the Rev. Mr. Cooper, succeeding ministers being Rev. G. W. Taylor, Rev. Mr. Simmonds and Mr. Wells, the incumbent.

CLOUDBURST WASHES HOUSE HUNDRED FEET

Pike's Peak Region Inundated; Families Homeless in Colorado City

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 11.—A cloudburst here early last night has demoralized street car traffic in the Pike's Peak region, and several families are reported to be homeless at Colorado City, where the rainfall was heaviest. Water three feet deep ran through the principal streets. The fire department was called on to rescue a number of persons marooned in their homes between Colorado City and Manitou. Several bridges on the Midland are reported washed out.

A house in the west end of Colorado City with its occupants was washed 100 feet by the torrent that swept down. Fountain Creek here is raging. The southern part of Colorado Springs is inundated, and several families there have been removed on horseback.

At Fountain, 2 miles south of Colorado Springs conditions are said to be alarming. A number of houses are reported to be in danger of being washed away. A call has been sent to Colorado Springs for assistance.

Fountain Creek, ordinarily a small stream, is overflowing its banks all the way to Pueblo, where warning had been sent to expect unusually higher waters. There had been no loss of life reported early last night.

PATERSON STRIKERS WAGE BILL HEAVY

Men Ceased Work February 25 and Lose $5,600,000 in Regular Earnings

Pateron, N. J., Aug. 11.—The last kick went out of the Paterson, N. J., strike when the handful left of the original 25,000 striking silk mill workers, refused permission by the authorities of Haledon to hold a final protest meeting in the little borough on the outskirts of Paterson, decided to go quietly back to work as fast as the mills can make places for them.

The strikers are returning to the wages and the conditions they left on February 25; they have a loss in wages of $5,600,000 to struggle against. The city of Paterson is out $60,000 spent for extra police protection, the manufacturers estimate their loss at $1,000,000, and admit it may take years for the silk city to entirely regain its prestige as a manufacturing centre. Hundreds of merchants, doctors, lawyers, bankers and small capitalists who have faced extinction during the bitter industrial war, when 60 per cent. of the working population was not earning a dollar, are bravely trying to recoup their losses.

The police are thankfully resting after having made 2,837 arrests, lawyers and judges are hastening the strike cases still on the dockets, armed guards are being slowly withdrawn from the storm centres, wheels are turning in all of the 300 mills affected, empty freight cars are being hurried from nearby points once more to carry the product of the mills to the consumers, and Paterson, outwardly at least, shows scarcely a visible effect of the warfare.

From the beginning of the strike five months ago the leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World were in charge, but they deny that they ever consented to the mill employees returning to work. Carlos Treaca said: "There were two committees, an executive committee of the I. W. W. and a strike committee, many members of which did not belong to our organization. It was the strike committee that voted for the workers to settle with individual shops and thus broke the strike. It was not done with the consent or sanction of the I. W. W."

Elizabeth Gurley Flynn explained the failure of the strike in these words: "When the workers saw the hundreds who were pouring back to work beginning to be well fed and decently clothed, we couldn't hold them any longer. They would stick together only as long as they were all hungry."

The I. W. W. leaders are now going to fade quietly out of Paterson. Big Bill Haywood, chief of the I. W. W., who is reported as very sick, is going West for a long rest. Miss Flynn will soon start West on an extended money-making campaign. Treaca is tired out and is going back to Pennsylvania to run his little newspaper for a while.

NATIONAL PROHIBITION PROBABLE FOR SWEDEN

Prime Minister Staaf Declares Only Way Drunkenness Can Be Cured.

Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 11.—There is a prospect that Sweden soon may be placed under national prohibition. Laws making it an offence to drink spirituous liquors anywhere in the country are contemplated, and there is a reasonable chance that they will be adopted.

Prime Minister Staaf, in an address before a congress of teetotalers in Stockholm, declared that prohibition was the only effective means of preventing drunkenness. All other attempted methods of reform, he said, had proved ineffective and insufficient to stop the evil.

The prime minister's speech is considered an indication of the government's policy, and is believed to foreshadow the introduction into parliament of a bill for the prohibition of all spirituous drinks in Sweden. Such a law would command the support of the royal family. The King is a strong temperance advocate, and the Crown Prince is a total abstainer.

A prohibitory law would be likely to meet with opposition from France. Sweden has a big trade in wines and spirits with France, and she depends upon the French money market to finance many Swedish enterprises. In the form of the exclusion of French wines would encounter retaliation in the form of the exclusion of Swedish securities from the Paris bourse. A proposal to increase the duty on wines in 1904 had to be dropped because the French government protested, and threatened to bar Swedish consols from the Paris stock exchange.

NOT WORRIED BECAUSE POWERS REMAIN AWAY

San Francisco, Aug. 11.—The Panama Pacific exposition managers are not worried by the announcements that England, Germany and Russia will not exhibit at the fair in 1915. They predict that the industrial show will be a great success. Enough countries have already obtained concessions from Frank Burt, who is in charge of that end of the exposition, to warrant them in declaring that the affair will be worth any one's attention. But the fact that these great European countries have not entered the exposition has aroused interest in the present condition of the grounds. The service building was the first to be completed, and the mammoth machinery hall, which will be the largest on the fair grounds, is gradually assuming definite shape. Work is being pushed in all departments.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC STRIKES TWO AUTOS

Three Persons Dead and Eight Injured at San Lorenzo Yesterday

Oakland, Cal., Aug. 11.—Three persons are dead and eight are injured, three of whom will probably die, as the result of a collision yesterday afternoon, between the Southern Pacific's Stockton Flyer and two automobiles at San Lorenzo.

The dead are: Mrs. John Bellini, San Francisco; Mrs. Margaret Odenwelder, Oakland; Albert McTeer, 15 years old, Sacramento.

The injured: Mrs. Elbert Bellini, San Francisco, skull fractured; Albert Bellini, internal injuries; Elbert Bellini, Jr., leg broken; Donna Bellini, internal injury; John Bellini, San Francisco, head injured.

Mrs. Edith Elliott, daughter of Mrs. Odenwelder, cut and bruised. John J. McTeer, Oakland, fractured skull and three ribs. Mrs. J. D. McTeer, lacerated and bruised.

At the point where the accident occurred the highway nearly parallels the railway track. The machines were running at a good speed, but those who escaped grave injury said they were not racing, and attributed the accident to a defective lantern on a pile of dirt near the roadside.

The accident occurred at dusk. The two cars were en route from San Jose to Oakland. In the foremost car were Mr. and Mrs. John D. McTeer in the front seat, Mr. and Mrs. Garret Odenwelder, their daughter, Mrs. Edith Elliott, wife of the chief engineer of the United Railway Company, and Albert McTeer, the young son of the driver of the machine.

In the second car were Mr. and Mrs. John Bellini and Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Bellini, with their children Everett and Donna. The train struck it square. Its occupants were thrown in the air, except the two women, who were caught on the pilot and carried some distance. The first car was hit with the same force and as a consequence the occupants were not so seriously hurt.

DAIRYMAN KILLED IN FALLING DOWN WELL

Henry Hyam Endeavors to Recover Lost Bucket and Loses His Life.

Jubilee, Burnaby, Aug. 11.—The breaking of a rope caused the tragic death of Henry Hyam, aged 28 years, yesterday, the unfortunate man falling to the bottom of a deep well at the former residence of the late John Humber, Nelson avenue. Jubilee, Mr. Hyam had been in Canada for seven years and was a native of Liverpool, England.

Yesterday morning he received eight cows, in addition to three he had previously purchased, and as more water was required Mr. Hyam decided to make an effort to recover a bucket from a deep well on the premises, which had not been used for some time as there was also a smaller well on the premises.

With the assistance of a neighbor at noon yesterday a rope was rigged up and Hyam proceeded to lower himself to the bottom of the well. When about 50 feet down the rope broke and Hyam fell another 50 feet to the bottom.

Assistance was obtained as quickly as possible, and the body taken from the well. Dr. Buller, of Central Park, was sent for and on arrival declared that death had been caused by a broken neck.

The deceased leaves a widow and three young children.

TRIBESMEN TO RESIST TROOPS OF GOVERNMENT

Amoy, China, Aug. 12.—A column of 500 government troops was despatched from here last night in pursuit of the Tungan Tribesmen, who recently killed a number of Formosans here. The riots led to a demand from the Japanese government for an indemnity, and for the execution of the leaders of the tribes.

Strong resistance is expected from the tribesmen who are well armed.

MOUNTAIN CLIMBERS SEE PEAK OF ROBSON

Within Three Hundred Feet of Summit Party Driven Back by Storm

Mount Robson, B. C., Aug. 12.—Climbing upward on Mount Robson by an alternate route to that of Thomas Conrad Cain and his party, Walter Stanfieldberger, B. S. Darling and H. H. Prouty made their way last Tuesday to within 300 feet of the summit, but gathering storms and chilling, biting winds compelled the climbers to return when within sight of their goal.

The party ascended by the west ridge. From the camp at 8,475 feet close to the avalanche fan on the west face, the climbing was made on the west route. This route proved to be not without difficulties and thirteen hours and fifteen minutes were occupied in making the ascent, much time being spent exploring the route.

It was impossible to cut steps on these slopes near the summit at a greater rate than fifty per hour, the angle preventing the full swing of the axe, and the steps had to be cut with short strokes. At this rate it would have taken three or four hours to climb the slope, which was of hard ice, covered with a dangerous film of snow, and as the storm clouds were already stealing on the summit and sweeping up the slopes where the climbers stood, they regretfully decided to return.

The decision was hard to make with their goal in sight, but it was now 6.15 o'clock and snow was beginning to fall, while the cold was so bitter that the climbing rope was like a wire hawser. The way was made to the ridge but darkness came on so fast the party was compelled to bivouac at 11,000 feet or 2,000 higher than Cain and his party bivouached on the way down. Snow was falling and the slopes were so steep that no place could be found to camp but on the crest of the ridge.

This is not much wider than ten feet and drops to a sheer precipice off the avalanche fan on one side, and another avalanche couloir on the other side. To protect themselves from the high wind the climbers built a wall about themselves with the flat slabs of limestone which lined the ridge. During the night snow and hail fell at intervals, the wind blew without intermission and the lightning and thunder were their constant companions. It was so cold the party was unable to obtain any sleep.

YOUNG AUTOMOBILE BANDITS ARRESTED

Seven Under Twenty Years Led by Clergyman's Son at Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 11.—An extensive organization of youthful automobile bandits who rode in other people's automobiles and spent other people's money have been arrested. More arrests were promised to-day in the series which has already resulted in the falling of seven young men, all under 20 years old.

To Eugene Nelander, known as "The Bear," aged 17 years, and a son of Rev. Edward Nelander, was attributed leadership of the gang in confessions which officers said they had received. The crimes attributed to those under arrest include three hold-ups and robberies, in one of which a pedestrian, acting as escort to a young woman was shot in the leg. In another case two men accompanied by their wives were held up. A Japanese also was robbed in daylight last week.

BATTERIES OPENED ON MASSON'S AEROPLANE

Damage Done to Mexican Buildings but War Aviator Succeeds in Escaping.

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 11.—An unexpected bombardment of Empalme was occasioned yesterday by an accident to Didier Masson's aeroplane. The engine suddenly stopped while he was flying over Guaymas harbor. Masson volunteered to shore, landing in the Mexican section of the American railroad settlement.

The French aviator was caught on land within reach of the federal cannon for the first time since he began dropping bombs around the gunboats Guerrero and Tampico. For an hour and a half shrapnel shot was scattered over Empalme, the gunboats being joined by the federal shore batteries. The general offices of the Southern Pacific of Mexico, other railroad property and many private buildings were damaged.

All non-combatants fled to the hills. Masson was believed to have escaped and no foreigners were injured.

A man who had to leave on a journey before the end of a case begun against him by a neighbor gave orders to his lawyers to let him know the result by telegraph. After several days he got the following telegram: "Right has triumphed." He at once telegraphed back, "Appeal immediately."

DEVOTES LIFE TO LEPERS IN CHINA

Father Conrardy Has 1,000 Under His Care in Shek-lung Island

London, Aug. 11.—The heroism of Father Damien will long be remembered, and he has a worthy emulator in the person of Father Conrardy, who is now stationed at the leper island at Shek-lung, in the Kwantung province of China.

For nearly forty years he has labored among the lepers. His attention was first drawn to the condition of lepers in 1871, when he was in India, and from 1876 he has devoted his life to the alleviation of their sufferings. He labored in Honolulu from 1887 to 1896, then for a year in Canton before taking up his residence at the Shek-lung leper island, where he has all the lepers in the province under his care. The Canton government has now recognized his work, and is giving him a grant toward the cost of the erection of fifteen large houses on the island, each designed to accommodate seventy-two lepers, so that the leper population there will exceed 1,000. Father Conrardy has, however, had to make himself responsible for one-fourth of the cost of the construction of these houses. The government will allow 8 cents a day toward the cost of the maintenance of each leper, but of this sum Father Conrardy has to provide the staff necessary for the work. Already seven of these houses have been erected.

Horrors of Recent Revolution. The Rev. Hugh T. Chapman, chaplain of the Savoy, who took such keen interest in the work of Father Damien, has just received a letter from Father Conrardy in which he gives so-a horrible details of the revolution which took place recently in China. In his letter Father Conrardy, who is a doctor of medicine, says:

"In November the provincial government wrote to me to beg me to take charge of all the lepers of the province. Considering I could do them much good by alleviating their bodily sufferings, and maybe winning their souls to God, I accepted in spite of my 72 years and lonely condition. The bishop of Canton promised me an assistant, and four sisters volunteered themselves to care for the women in a separate island, as the government insisted."

The government agreed to put up fifteen big houses for seventy lepers each. I contributed $2,500 toward them, and in addition I had to buy another small island for the women.

Robbed by Brigands. "On December 14 about twenty brigands came. I thought some lepers had come to call for me. I lighted my lamp and opened my door, only to be covered with guns and revolvers from head to foot. I asked them what they wanted and sat down to see what came next on the programme. I expected they would surely kill me, as they had threatened that if I fell into their hands they would rip me up. They took all my money put by to pay the hands, my spectacles and all the rice stored for the lepers."

"For six months I had lived, specially at nights, with the thought that at any moment I might be shot, but it did not become a reality even on this occasion. Now in spite of my years I have still much work to do, with a thousand lepers under my care and with very little assistance, but St. Joseph is our protector."

Very little sympathy is shown to the lepers in China. In the nearest province on December 14 thirty-nine lepers were ordered to be shot down and burned, but, thanks be to God, I was at hand and they were spared. I feel sometimes that I must take a little rest before I close my eyes for good; but how can I when there is so much to be done and few to do it?"

PACIFYING OF FORMOSA.

How Japan is Civilizing the Savage Natives.

London, Aug. 11.—Ever since the Chinese-Japanese war in 1896 Japan has been pursuing a quiet but effective system of colonization in the island of Formosa, and is gradually performing a seemingly impossible task of making a population of 120,000 savages sufficiently civilized to turn the country from a non-productive to a productive community. For centuries the Chinese settlers in the island, who now number about 5,000,000, tried in vain to make the aborigines civilized. The force used by Japan in reducing the island is thus described by Shinji Ichi in the Asiatic Quarterly Review:

"The Plan of Controlling the Savages," as it is called in Formosa, was inaugurated in 1895, covering a period of five fiscal years, at a cost of 15,000,000 yen. In carrying out this plan the resistance on the part of the savages follows in its train as an inevitable result, so that at present much time is spent in making campaigns in different places, with heavy and costly sacrifices. But its ulterior object is the establishment of good thoroughfares in the northern district inhabited by the head hunters. Indeed, the construction of a good road as an entering wedge for civilizing the wild has already proved successful among hill tribes in the Philippines, and among jungle people in British India."

"The northern savage district, which is at present a scene of fierce guerrilla wars, is surrounded by the 'guard line' extending nearly 300 miles. Over this line 1,700 stations and guard houses are sprinkled, with a total guard force of 7,500, including both Japanese and Formosan Chinese. In some sections of the line wire entanglements are set up charged with electricity, which is supplied from four small power stations erected at the foot of mountain streams. Mountain and machine guns are also placed on commanding hills."

"For a time the electrically charged wires were objects of great marvel to the savages, and something quite beyond the ken of their imagination. But soon experience, accompanied by more or less sacrifice, taught them practical lessons, and they not infrequently trepassed over the line, shifting the wires by means of a dried bamboo pole, which they found would insulate the current, or by digging a hole in the ground just below the deadly wires."

"Besides the communication by telephone which unites large stations on the line, a signal can be exchanged between the guard houses by means of a wooden or bamboo drum—a piece of bamboo, or a trunk of a tree hollowed out inside about four feet in length, and a foot in diameter, which is slung from the eaves of a guard house at a distance of about 400 to 500 yards. It is stated that by this means a message can be transmitted from one end of the line to the other in about three hours. This system of drum telegraphy, however, is not of Formosan invention, but was imported by the Chinese from the mainland, together with the guard system, some 150 years ago."

PARIS MINISTRY WILL DEVELOP WAR AEROPLANE

Paris, Aug. 11.—The ministry has given its approval to a scheme for the wide development of the aeroplane to co-operate with the navy. M. Baudin, the minister of marine, will ask parliament when it convenes for an immediate appropriation of $1,750,000.

It is believed battleships and large cruisers will be able, during a battle to use aeroplanes to throw explosives as powerful as those now used in torpedoes, and French naval designers are taking into account the necessity for an overhead navy.

THE PACK IS RAVENOUS.

A few days ago an able, painstaking and efficient, but unfortunately very sensitive, public servant was hounded to his death by a pack of office-hungry coyotes in this city or in this city's neighborhood. Following the lamentable death of Dr. Watt, the Colonist, acknowledged Conservative organ, said: "There is no room at all for doubt that Dr. Watt died a victim to political persecution. This is a hard thing to say, but that the shattered condition of his nerves, which was the direct cause of his death, was due to the persecution to which he has of late been subjected is beyond question. . . . We do not care to enlarge upon this painful subject, but we wish to say as emphatically as we know how that, as the Colonist did not countenance that investigation, so we shall always oppose political persecution in whatever manner or form it may arise. . . . Here we have a case where a capable and efficient public servant, the first quarantined officer on this coast of Canada to order a steamship into quarantine notwithstanding the protests of her commander, a man before whom, under normal conditions, there would have been many years of usefulness, driven to his death by the greed of patronage. We are glad to know that neither Sir Richard McBride, nor Mr. Barnard, nor Mr. Shepherd has ever countenanced this craving for office which has done so much harm in the past. We know they will join with us in saying that it is time this persistent evil in our public life was forever abated."

Now the question arises, in view of this very emphatic declaration, brought forth as a result of a tragic occurrence, who is responsible for persecutions born of lust for office? Our contemporary says neither Sir Richard McBride, nor Mr. Barnard, nor Mr. Shepherd, can be charged with responsibility. Upon whom must the onus be laid? Is there some one or some body possessing greater authority in such matters than the members for the districts or the premier of the province? Because it appears persecution has not ceased notwithstanding the untoward consequences so bitterly commented upon and so emphatically condemned by our contemporary, in what appears to have been a spasm of remorse. Are the forces of corruption, led by one whose name in the space of a few years has become a by-word in the city, more powerful than the influence of the leaders of the Conservative party? Are the hungry office-seekers reduced to such a desperate state of mind by the evident dire straits of the Borden government that no sense of decency can restrain them in their resolve to make openings for themselves while they have the opportunity?

WAITING FOR THE FUN.

Napoleon once said that a sub-officer who did not imitate his superior in all things was not fit for the army of France. Should this mandatum of "the Little Corporal" hold good in the life political, it were high time for Premier Borden to ostracize Colonel Hon. Sam Hughes from his cabinet. For in regard at least to the appointment of high officials under his jurisdiction, there is certainly no slavish imitation of his chief in the present attitude of the Minister of Militia.

Rather is there direct contra-action. Mr. Borden's genuine and unaffected concern for the dictates of the Admiralty has certainly not been simulated by his warlike colleague, who has now openly defied the British War Office in his choice of Colonel W. G. Gwatkin as Chief of Staff of the Canadian Military Service. In this respect his independence and bluntness form a pleasing contrast to the servile kowtowing and almost senile vacillation which Mr. Borden displayed in his late exchanges with the Admiralty.

The question that is agitating all the military mind and no small part of the mind of the general public as well as the answer that the War Office will make to the communication of the Canadian Minister of Militia and Defence. For, hitherto, the appointment to the post of Chief of Staff has been made by the department in the Old Country, and the Canadian Minister has had practically no voice in the selection of the military expert sent out from Britain. As a consequence, Canada has had to take the man the War Office chose, and that choice was not always made with an eye to temperament and adaptability. The result has been several square pegs in round holes, and consequent friction between the Chief of Staff and the Minister.

Now when Colonel Sam first took his ministerial portfolio under his arm, he had very pronounced views on the matter of the control of the Canadian militia. Neither have these views been dissipated or even mitigated by two years in office. When he set out to be "boss" in his own particular portion of the political cosmos, he did so with a very wide interpretation in mind of the precise meaning of the term. In addition to its normal definition he included, "no interference from anybody." It will perhaps be remembered how he dealt with General Hutton. Then General Mackenzie crossed swords with him and promptly received a typewritten tip from the Minister that his room was more desirable than his company.

While General Mackenzie's official term in Canada has not expired, he is no longer in the Dominion and has nothing to do with the administration of the Canadian Militia; but in his absence Colonel Hon. Sam notifies the War Office that he has appointed Colonel Gwatkin as successor. He does not ask the War Office whether he may make the appointment. He simply reports that he has done so and asks merely for their endorsement. Among the officials in that department where red tape is the one tutelary goddess, we can imagine more walling than has been since that historic occasion when Rachel wept for her children and would not be comforted.

The results are likely to be interesting. In any case they cannot but create an important precedent. The War Office may elect to stand on its dignity and denounce Hon. Sam for his unparalleled lack of respect, but, having regard to the attitude assumed in the recent past by the government towards the Dominions overseas, it is not likely that the Asquith regime will permit the War Office to create a situation that would be intensely difficult to handle. On the other hand, the Minister of Militia is not the man to back down before the red tape of the War Office, and the possibility of a dignified melee between the two departments seems therefore not unlikely.

Among Canadian military officers Colonel Gwatkin is given a very high reputation as an administrator and soldier, and he also understands the Canadian situation thoroughly and has adapted himself to it. So that if the Minister of Militia manages to maintain his point, two things will happen. Canada will get a most capable soldier at the head of her permanent force and Premier Borden will receive a very good object lesson in independence and stanchness from a subordinate minister.

CAPTAIN HALSEY, R. N.

It was with more than conventional regret that Victoria bade farewell on Saturday to the gallant gentleman who for one short week has been a welcome guest to this port. On the great cruiser which he has the honor to command, Captain Lionel Halsey, R. N., has received many hundreds of Victorians with unfailing hospitality and courtesy. On many occasions he was called upon to make public utterances, and though a bluff single-minded seaman, his diplomacy and tact throughout have been unfailing, and to his credit it may be said that never once has he uttered a word that might in any way be construed as controversial.

An excellent after-dinner speaker, the various events during last week at which he was guest of honor have been graced by the quiet humor and simple directness of his oratory. Throughout he has shown himself to be a man of modesty and address, a devotee to duty, and one who believes implicitly in the truism that he who would command must first needs learn to obey. Though by no means a martinet, it is obvious from Captain Halsey's utterances that he pins his faith very largely to the potency of discipline in corporate endeavor and its value in determining the character of the individual.

In Victoria, at least, the gallant captain made himself universally popular, and the degree in which his own presence and that also of the officers and men under his charge have added to the enjoyment of the carnival week can scarcely be over-estimated. He left behind him the impression of a simple hearted sailor and of a splendid specimen of those efficient and gentlemanly officers of the King's service who bear after their names the initials, R. N.

We have an idea that the New Zealand paid a visit to Victoria. It seems to us that the ship lingered here a few days, and that some entertainment was provided for her officers and crew. But we are beginning to have some doubts about that now after glancing at a number of eastern newspapers. Everything that has been printed in the outside press in regard to the visit of the warship is dated Vancouver. It may be that we have been dreaming all these years, and that such places as Victoria and Esquimalt really do not exist. Can it be that Hon. W. J. Bowser, with Napoleonic characteristics, has ordered the C. P. R. telegraph company to wipe us off the map?

No tonic in the world like golf. The nerves of Premier Borden were all unstrung as a result of a very strenuous session of parliament coupled with a number of irritating little things not unconnected with internal dissensions in his party. But a few weeks on the links fixed up Mr. Borden completely. So we learn from a press dispatch. Another few weeks in the Ontario lake district, and he will be in complete fettle for another rapping session, whenever he decides to face the ordeal. This is very good news indeed, because any man in such a position as the premier has placed himself requires to be in the very best of health.

The Imperial Parliament, we are told, has ceased to be the best club in Europe. But there is at least some compensation in the knowledge that parliament is now accomplishing more than it ever did for the amelioration of the condition of the average Briton. We have not to go very far back in history to discover that when the institution was "the finest club in Europe" this could not truthfully be said.

Jewels worth twelve million dollars were exhibited at a recent society ball in Newport, Rhode Island. Of course the gems were shown in appropriate settings—on fair women. The reveals, needless to say, were conducted inside a cordon of detectives. It is safe to assume that social revolutionists will have something biting to say about this.

The carnival wound up on Saturday night in a blaze of glory—that is, in an electric illumination and fireworks. But this does not imply that there will be another kind of display when the critics begin to estimate the value of the affair to the city from a business point of view.

In one particular Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, Minister of Militia, etc., displays sound sense. He says life is too short to pay any attention to "flag incidents." We see all kinds of flags in this part of the world, and never have any "incidents."

A correspondent would like to be informed what is the very best journal published that deals exclusively with dairy farming. Can any of our readers supply the desired information?

Parliament no longer the finest club in Europe, eh? Blame Joe Martin.

TWENTY-EIGHT CENTS A DAY CANADIAN LOYALISTS.

(Mr. Ramsden, Liberal speaker at Scarborough Liberal Picnic.)

"I'm a Canadian, the son of an English father, with British ancestry, British traditions and British training. Do you think I'll permit the men who carried torches down the streets in Toronto after Louis Philippe Pelletier, the Nationalist, who calls on his fellow-countrymen to hire English at twenty-eight cents a day to do their fighting for them to call me disloyal? Are these the kind of men we are to learn our loyalty from?"

CANNING TIME.

(Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

There is perennial inspiration in the sight or thought of a housekeeper working with preserving pots and jars. It takes one back to the days when the family was more nearly self-sufficient, before the baker, the butcher and the ice-man came daily to undermine one's independence, before the race had made the acquaintance of quick lunch and delicatessen shop.

AN EXPERT.

(London Advertiser.)

Yes, we should think Mr. Crothers a good man to be minister of labor. He knows how to labor for himself and his party. He is doubtless a good political working man. And we are sure he will try to work the laborer and the mechanic to the best advantage for himself and the government. Though it is possible the aforesaid may not be worked as easily as the minister of labor thinks.

SUCCESSORS IN HARD LUCK.

(Vancouver Sun.)

Hard luck has so far been the lot of the persons who, under the title of the Silica Sand and Gravel Company, are attempting to grab the monopoly of the Spanish Banks. The first shock they received was when their carefully prepared plot to enrich themselves from the public domain and incidentally run up the price of an important factor in the building material of Vancouver, was exposed by the Sun. Following close upon this came the repudiation by the Dominion government of any intention to give them the exclusive right in the Banks, and the claim put in by Attorney-General Bower that the province and not the Dominion is the owner of the property in question. To cap all, Mr. Justice Murphy yesterday refused the interim injunction asked by the Silica company to restrain the firm of Champion & White from removing sand from the bank. The document, produced by the plaintiffs (the Silica Sand and Gravel Company) as a basis of their claim, said Mr. Justice Murphy in his judgment, is so obscure in its language that the determination whether it confers any rights at all on which an injunction can be founded calls for grave consideration, and such consideration should not, in the absence of irreparable damage likely to follow, be prejudiced by the granting of an interim injunction.

Even if the Dominion government had not denied that they had given Mr. W. J. Pascoe and his associates in the Silica company, whoever they are, a monopoly of the banks, such an opinion from the bench would discourage most men from making any further attempt to obtain possession of the property, but Mr. Pascoe has his office-mate, Mr. H. H. Stevens, M. P., behind him, and there is no telling what his influence at Ottawa, the potency of which everyone must know through the speeches of the gentleman himself, may effect. It is no rest that both Mr. Stevens and Mr. Pascoe believed that they had been granted an exclusive title to the banks by the Dominion government. Their intentions cannot be questioned. They deliberately framed up a game which would enable the company to tax every cubic yard of sand used in building construction and for other purposes in Vancouver, and if they have had it was not because they had not laid their plans carefully, but because no government could withstand the force of public opinion once such a monstrous case of graft came to the ears of the people. It is to be hoped that his failure in the present instance, and the injury which his reputation must have sustained in being mixed up in such transaction, will be a lesson to Mr. Stevens to refrain from trying to help his friends at the expense of the public in future, and if he is wise he will advise his friends to avoid further publicity in this matter and patiently submit to the loss of the golden harvest they expected to reap through his pull at the capital.

We do not know whether the claim of the province to the ownership of the banks is well founded, or not, but in taking part with Champion & White as a co-defendant, Attorney-General Bower has undoubtedly served the true interests of the public whatever his motives may have been. We will not say that Mr. Bower's interest in the case was inspired by the fact that if the contention of the Silica company had been sustained, serious inconvenience to the building trades of Vancouver would have ensued, but as Mr. Justice Murphy pointed out, that fact would have justified him, as custodian of public rights, in lending his aid to the defendants. The attorney-general can, at all events, claim the credit of having been for once on the side of the public, while our Dominion representative must always rest under the suspicion and mark the suspicion of having been a party to a job, which, had it succeeded, would have increased the living expenses of the entire population.

WHERE THE FAULT LIES

(Kingston Standard.)

A New York clergyman has revived the idea of changing the Ten Commandments. Our good friend should leave the commandments alone and direct his attention to changing the people who break the Commandments. The fault is not with the Commandments or their number. It is with the people who break them—and the more there were to break the more would be broken. This New York clergyman is beginning his work of reform at the wrong end.

All About the New Fall Styles

VERY day brings fresh shipments of new Fall Goods, which are full of interest to all women. We therefore invite you to come and see the goods, for never before was a season when there was so much variety shown, both in materials and in style.

New Fall Coats In a Great Variety of Styles and Materials

THE Fall tendency is for three-quarter and seven-eighths coats, although a few styles are shown in the full length garments.

To a considerable degree the modified cutaway effects are favored, though many straight cut coats are to be found in the lines showing.

This season much attention has been given to the neck finish; almost invariably the collars are so arranged that they can be fastened high up for protection of the neck in cold weather, and the revers are long and narrow.

Materials are so unusually handsome that trimmings are almost unnecessary; and apart from fancy collars and cuffs, little attempt has been made at ornamentation.

The buttons have been selected with great care, and frequently add to the effectiveness of a garment. In most cases they are in the new bright shades.

Novelty Costumes In a Large Range of Handsome Styles

THE extreme, also modified, cutaway styles are very prominent in the new Fall Models; especially in the brocaded and two-toned novelty cloths with stripe effects. These are very prominent and stand out in contrast to the plainer shades, also brown and grey mixtures.

Those who prefer a more conservative style will find also that there are many interesting features in the new models.

New Tailored Costumes—Exclusive Styles

OUR exclusive man-tailored costumes are more popular, so far this season, than ever. We are showing the new models in high-grade serges, in plain colors, fancy worsteds and suitings. These are all lined with best silk or Skinner satin. All sizes are included, but if for any reason you cannot obtain a perfect fit from our regular stock, we shall be pleased to make a suit for you and—we guarantee a perfect fit.

New Felt Outing Hats For Fall Wear

WE have a splendid assortment of new models in Ladies' Felt Outing Hats for early Fall wear. They come in all the new shades, shapes and colors, and they are all trimmed ready for wear. We invite you to come and inspect them. They are displayed in the showroom on first floor and you will find there are many interesting features about the new styles which is impossible to describe in an advertisement.

New Fall Styles In Men's and Women's Footwear

MOST of our New Fall Models have arrived, and we are confident that the values that they embody will please the most exacting shopper in town. The beauty of these models is almost beyond flattery, while the materials and workmanship are beyond criticism. Come and see them in the department. You are welcome whether you purchase or not.

For Women.—Button Boots are mostly favored. These are in patent leather, with dull calf tops; also in gun-metal with low heels. In patent leather and gun-metal, with Cuban heels and a full, round toe; also black suede, with cravenette tops.

For Men.—The new styles mostly favor high toe, with low or high heels and the more conservative style; in all the usual leathers—box calf, gun-metal, and vici kid.

MUSIC IS BETTER

Clarence Eddy, Internationally Known Organist, Speaks of Growth of Canadian Taste.

Victoria has been particularly fortunate in her visiting musicians this year, and yesterday in Clarence Eddy, arrived one who bears a household name as an organist in two continents. He comes on this occasion to give recitals at the opening of the new organ at St. John's Anglican church, having an opportunity in this way to renew his acquaintance with Victoria, which he visited about ten years ago for the purpose of a recital at old St. John's church.

Naturally Victoria has changed greatly, both in outward appearance and in its musical development since that time, and the visitor remarked on the wonderful improvements which have taken place meanwhile. In the course of a chat with a "Times" man this morning Mr. Eddy said: "One of the most satisfactory features which I note in touring round the country is the manner in which western cities of this continent are commencing to install high class organs in their public halls, either under municipal or public control, thereby affording to the citizens an opportunity of hearing music of high class quality at a nominal cost, or even free. This is a leaf which they have taken from the book of experience of the cities of the old world with benefit to them all."

"I note also a growth in the musical taste, and a desire for better music in churches and at public functions. It has been my privilege to play at nearly all the great national and international expositions since the Vienna gathering of 1873—in fact, I am at the present time negotiating for an engagement at the Panama-Pacific exposition, and I have had an opportunity of forming an opinion on public taste in the intervening years. The international character of music is beneficial in bringing the nations together. "I would like to commend the echo organ at St. John's church, which gives excellent effects, and also the fine set of chimes with which it is equipped. The result secures a mellow, truly musical effect."

Mr. Eddy said this was his seventeenth Pacific coast tour.

After filling several other engagements on the coast the musician is to hurry back to New York city in record time to keep an engagement.

Collector—"I've called here a dozen times, sir, and I positively won't call again." Mr. Neverpay (cheerfully):—"Oh, come now, my man; don't be so superstitious about making the thirteenth call. Nothing will happen, I assure you."

It is a drama gripping with intense heart interest, that is sure to please. "The Mad Sculptor" is a very sensational picture in which a wounded girl hangs, foot caught, over the saddle while her horse trots home. "The Good in the Worst of Us," a drama full of unusual situations. "The power of sleep." Many Fine Compositions.—Among the compositions which will be played at the opening of the new pipe organ at St. John's church this evening by Clarence Eddy are the following: "Festival Prelude and Fugue on 'Old Hundred'; Eddy; "Overture to William Tell," Rossini; "Spring Song from the South," Lemare; "Toccata in F Major," Crawford; "Sonata in E Minor," Rogers; "Am Meer" (by the sea), Schubert; "Evensong," Johnston; variations of Concert, Bonnet. There is to be no admission fee at the recitals but a collection will be taken. The organ has been completed and is ready for use.

Interdict Fined.—Among the half dozen drunks taken in police court today was Charles Hanson, who has been in trouble before. Chief Langley described him as a man who was considerable of a nuisance and always wanted to quarrel when in liquor. He was an interdict but would never tell where he got the intoxicants. To the magistrate, Hanson said he got it this last time through a man from Seattle, but this story was too thin for the court to believe. A fine of six dollars or a sentence of ten days was imposed, and Hanson was remanded that he was liable to a further fine for refusing to say where he got the liquor, at the same time being warned that another offence will be dealt with more severely.

Will Consider Tenders.—The Saanich municipal council will sit in works committee to-morrow at 3 o'clock for the purpose of considering the tenders for paving in connection with the large good roads programme. The tenders will be in by noon to-morrow, and among the bidders will be the Warren Construction Company, and the Westwick Paving Company, between whom the contract would have been divided under the former tenders, before a concrete base was added. Considerable interest is felt in these tenders, and in order to avoid delay Reeve Nicholson told the Times this morning that he had called a committee meeting at once. The bidding will be on the new specifications prepared by the government engineer in consultation with the municipal engineer.

CIVIC COMMITTEES MEET

Difficulty About Annexation.—North-west Citizens to Have Goldstream Water To-day.

Two civic committees sat this morning at the city hall to prepare reports for presentation at the city council meeting this evening. The committee named to prepare a case for the city in the proposed annexation of Ward Two of Saanich will report that if differential rating is required over a term of years for the district special legislation will be necessary, although the precedent of the annexation of Hastings township by Vancouver city will afford some guidance for the committee. No recommendation will be made as to representation at the annexation meeting called for Thursday at St. Mark's hall. The committee to look into the fall accommodation set for brief space, and will ask the council for further time to report. Several of the aldermen were in conference this morning figuring up the city's cost of the entertainment of H. M. S. New Zealand, upon which a report will be made, probably through the regular session of the finance committee this afternoon.

Water Commissioner Rust was able this morning to give the welcome intelligence to the citizens in the north-west portion of the city that the supply from Elk lake has been replaced by water from Goldstream, as is supplied to other parts of the city. Smith's Hill reservoir rose to 14 feet 10 inches overnight, a considerable gain for the week-end.

VISITORS ARE INJURED

Caught Between Motor and Street Car.—One Man Has Lung Punctured By Broken Rib.

A serious motor car accident occurred on Newmarket avenue late on Saturday afternoon, and two Seattle residents are in the Royal Jubilee hospital as a result of the injuries they received there.

George A. Fraser was taking these gentlemen, D. G. Inverarity and A. Shaw, as well as Cornelius Walsh, for a motor trip about the city, in the course of which they had visited Oak Bay.

Mr. Fraser was turning the car out from the court-yard at the rear of the Oak Bay hotel to the roadway of Newmarket avenue, and had got on the track before he discovered that there was a car from the city approaching rapidly. He increased the speed of the car, in order to get clear of the tracks but failed to get off in time, and the street car struck the motor car on the rear wheel on the left side.

The motor car was pushed round clear of the track to the right side but did not upset nor was it damaged to any extent. Unfortunately the Seattle visitors, who were sitting on the side next the street car in the front and rear seats respectively, jumped out, and this proved to be unwise. Mr. Fraser and Mr. Walsh, who were sitting on the right-hand side, were uninjured.

Mr. Inverarity fell on the fender of the oncoming car and was considerably bruised and shaken up. Mr. Shaw was not so lucky. As he jumped out he was caught between the side of the motor car and the front of the street car, and was crushed severely. When examined at the hospital later it was found that he had several broken ribs, but the injury which is causing anxiety is a puncture of one lung by the jagged end of a broken rib.

Chief Handley, of the Oak Bay police force, was called and he had the injured men removed to the hospital in the police ambulance.

On inquiry this afternoon at the hospital it was learned that Mr. Shaw's condition remains very serious, but Mr. Inverarity is recovering. Both gentlemen are members of the Seattle Tillamook.

The court-yard out of which the motor car was turning is open to the road but there is a high board fence which cuts off the view of a car coming down the hill from Oak Bay avenue. There is some question as to whether or not the motorman was ringing his bell at the time.

WOULD KEEP OUT HINDUS

Sir Evan James, Distinguished Indian Administrator, Expresses His Opinion.

"You should restrict the Hindus from entry in Canada, not admitting them under any consideration," said Sir Evan James, Indian administrator, who arrived at the Empress hotel on Saturday. Sir Evan James is travelling through Canada to visit relatives, and has friends at Vernon, at Kamloops and in this city, whom he has already met, or proposes to see during the present journey, the first time he has been west of the Great Lakes. Sir Evan was not willing to discuss the Hindu question further than the above emphatic remark, which comes from a man of wide experience in the administration of the Indian Empire. He is a Knight Commander of the Star of India and wears other decorations for these public services.

He will make a short stay here before returning, having come west from New York by easy stages. He is very pleased with the locality. Among the important positions he held in India were Postmaster-General, Bombay, 1870; Director-General of the Post Office, 1880; Collector and Commissioner of Ahmedabad, 1889-91; and Commissioner in Sind till 1900, when he retired. For two years he was a member of the Governor-General's legislative council. He was subsequently an officiating member of the Council of Bombay till 1899, and a member of the Post of Spain Commission ten years ago. Sir Evan some years ago published a book on travels in Manchuria.

Warrant issued.—When Wilber E. Hall for the second time failed to appear in answer to the summons charging him with a breach of the traffic regulations of Constable Fry, in control of traffic at the C. P. R. wharf, a warrant was issued for him and he will be brought in to-morrow on that instead of on a summons. The allegation of the city authorities is that he not only refused to do as the constable told him but tried to drive over him.

A LINE O' CHEER

EACH DAY O' TH' YEAR
By John Kendrick Bango

SAVORLESS.

My diet's largely bread and cheese,
And water is the wine I quaff;
My notion of a life of ease
Is now and then to sit and laugh.

Yet have I seen men highly crowned,
Men feted, courted, sought by kings,
Who, 'tis said, laurels so renowned,
Could not enjoy these simple things.

Fame's very sweet, and all of that,
And with it doubtless comes delight;
But after all life's rather flat,

BADE CRUISER GOOD-BYE

Crowds of Citizens on Princess Charlotte and Small Boats Saw H. M. S. New Zealand Depart.

Hundreds of citizens seized the opportunity of the excursion on the Princess Charlotte on Saturday to witness the departure of H. M. S. New Zealand on her southern trip. The big steamer accompanied the battle cruiser in her circle off the shore, and as far as William Head. The Citizens' committee, which was responsible for the dates being changed in order to have the vessel here during carnival week, attended the leave-taking on the launch Imperieuse, and a series of farewell signals was exchanged between the officers of the battleship and the committee. A banner encircled the launch with the motto, "Good-bye and good luck." In addition to these special excursions, there were dozens of private fags, launches and sailing boats out in the straits to give a farewell to the cruiser, which did not finally head down the straits on her long voyage to Valparaiso, till well after 9 o'clock.

As the cruiser sailed out of Esquimalt harbor, the crews of U. S. S. West Virginia, H. M. C. S. Rainbow and H. M. S. Shearwater cheered the departing visitors, as did also the hundreds of persons gathered on the shores at the naval yard and elsewhere. It is estimated that 2,000 persons put to sea in order to witness the cruiser's departure.

During the week 5,844 visitors inspected the New Zealand, the largest number being on Friday, the public holiday, when 2,220 were on board. With the two days, July 25 and 26, it is estimated that 7,000 people inspected the battle cruiser in Victoria.

THEFTS OF FRUIT.

Orchardists of Saanich Complain and Police Catch Half Dozen.

There have been numerous complaints from fruit-growers in the Saanich peninsula of the thefts of fruit by people passing along the roads. Some of the cases, as reported, are deliberate robberies of orchards on a wholesale scale, while others are the taking of overhanging fruit by pedestrians or motor parties.

The fining of a man in police court the other day does not seem to have acted as a warning, and as the complaints have been continuing Chief Constable Little has had men at work for the past two days trapping fruit thieves.

Half a dozen people whose greed was stronger than their principles were caught, and these will be brought before the police magistrate to-morrow to explain themselves.

The little fellow, who was ten years old, was with his twelve-year-old sister and two other children at the time but they were unable to help him, and by the time their cries had brought a neighbor to the scene the lad had sunk for the third time.

He had got beyond his depth in the pool and was unable to get back to where he could touch bottom. The body was recovered soon after.

The lad was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy J. Raven, of Strawberry Vale. The family have lived there for but seven months, coming to the island from Roseland. Much sympathy is felt for them in their loss.

Chief Constable Little reported the case to the coroner but it was not considered necessary to hold an inquest.

QUITS TRANS-PACIFIC BUSINESS FOR GOOD

Andrew Weir Thinks Freight Rates Are Too Low; Was After Oriental Trade

Andrew Weir & Co., who for a number of years operated a fleet of steamships between here and the Orient, have decided to forsake the trans-Pacific run for good, according to advices which have just been received by the Times. The fine fleet of passenger and freight ships which once came here started to dwindle down until finally only the Oriole was left in the service and a short time ago she was withdrawn. It is not likely that Andrew Weir will again compete for the business between Oriental ports and this coast.

It is understood that Andrew Weir dropped out of this business because the freight rates were too low, and it is thought he and the other officials of the company figured that the rates would drop still lower upon the entrance of the Royal Mail Steam Packet and the Hamburg-American lines. All the vessels have been placed on other trade routes which yield better profits.

Built New Ships For Run. There was a time when Andrew Weir thought that the trans-Pacific trade would develop into a most profitable business, and he ordered the construction of two of the finest passenger and freight liners ever to cross the Pacific, the Lucerne and Oriole. The service of the Weir line, which was also known as the Bank line, was inaugurated by a class of freighters, including the Saveric, Aymeric, Oceano and Kumeric. These vessels handled great cargoes and in the early days of the service big profits were made. Finally this class of vessels was found to be too small to cope with the business in a proper manner and late in 1905 the orders for the Lucerne and Oriole were placed with English shipbuilders. These ships arrived and made a number of trips in the trans-Pacific run and carried close to 12,000 tons of freight on all inward and outward trips, as well as a good list of passengers.

Freight rates in other parts of the globe looked more attractive to Andrew Weir, and one by one his ships were withdrawn. He chartered a number of ships to maintain the trade and kept the Oriole in the business until late last year, when she too was withdrawn. When the charters of the other vessels were up they were released, until now the flag of Andrew Weir is never seen on the Pacific, except when an occasional tramp of his wanders up the coast for a lumber cargo.

There is little chance of Andrew Weir's ships ever again running between Victoria and the Orient. He has, however, announced that a fleet of his vessels will come here via the Panama canal from the Old Country, and there is a prospect that he may establish a round-the-world service, the vessels proceeding from here to Tokohama and through the Suez canal to England.

While one line disappeared from the Pacific two other companies appeared, as Andrew Weir's absence is not felt. The Royal Mail and Hamburg-American are working up good businesses between European ports and the Pacific coast, via the Orient.

JESSIE MEETS FIERCE WEATHER OFF THE COAST

With a catch of 28,000 pounds of halibut the fishing schooner Jessie, Capt. Geo. Heater, returned to port from the west coast banks this morning. Heavy weather was experienced outside, and the dories were only towed three days out of the eight days she was at sea. Yesterday the wind blew very hard from the southwest after the mist had been set, and the men had some difficulty in recovering the gear in the tremendous sea which was running.

RICART MAKES SAME TIME AS HOLT HILL

Chilean Barque Reaches Royal Roads 82 Days Out From Iquique; May Dock

By a strange coincidence the well known Chilean barque Ricart de Soler, Capt. D'Angelo, which dropped her anchor in the Royal Roads early this morning, took exactly the same time for the voyage north from Iquique as that of the British four-master Holt Hill, Capt. Bray, which was here last week. She was out from the Chilean port 82 days, which is an exceptionally slow passage, but it is nevertheless about the average passage this year.

Captain D'Angelo reports similar weather conditions to those which were experienced by the Holt Hill. Light airs and light calms in the tropics and strong northerly winds off the California, Oregon and Washington coasts prevented the fast barque from making anything near a fair passage. The Ricart is dirty and this also made her progress all the more slow.

The big barque is now here awaiting orders from her owners and it is expected that she will take a cargo of lumber at Port Gamble, Wash., to Valparaiso. Capt. D'Angelo expects to place his ship in dry-dock at Esquimalt before proceeding across the Sound to Iquique.

INVITE TENDERS FOR DREDGING SOOKE HARBOR

Tenders have been asked by the federal department of public works for the dredging of Sooke harbor. This harbor has silted up considerably in past years from the alluvial deposits brought down by the Sooke river and from debris brought in from sea, and a number of improvements are needed, particularly a new channel from the head of the Whiffen spit to the wharf.

While to-day the principal classes of vessels seen in the harbor are tug boats in connection with the lumber industries, in the early days all traffic was by sea. The miners who pushed into the Leech river goldfield in the sixties, all went by water, the road to Victoria not being opened for many years. The original miners' hotel remains in a new location as a barn of one of the farmers.

With the necessity of handling material for the concrete flow line of the Victoria waterworks at Cooper's Cove or some similar spot, improvement of access to the sea has become imperative. A vessel was recently paid to Sooke by the Dominion resident engineer, J. S. MacLachlan, who went to see what was most urgently required in the way of improvements for navigation.

BEATRICE PICKS UP UNMANNED GAS-BOAT

Little Craft Believed to Have Been Struck by Steamer; No One on Board

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 11.—With the starboard light carried away and the cabin deck splintered and broken from one end to the other, a small cabin gas boat was picked up early this morning by the C. P. R. steamer Princess Beatrice about 20 miles out of Vancouver harbor. Nothing which might serve to identify the owner was found on board the launch, but everything pointed to the fact that the craft had been recently occupied and the supposition is that it was struck by a large steamer which passed the Beatrice hours earlier on its way north and which displayed no lights.

The boat was first sighted by Captain Springall, who was walking on board about 5 o'clock this morning. Captain Shaw, master of the Beatrice, was informed of the fact that apparently no one was on board the little craft, and he ordered the course altered to pick it up. As the Beatrice approached it was made out to be a gasoline launch about 22 feet long, which evidently had been a small yacht before the engine had been installed. The Beatrice's engines were stopped and the launch was hoisted on board.

Glancing Blow Struck. Examination showed that a glancing blow had been struck the boat just above the deck on the side of the cabin below the starboard light, which had been torn away by the impact. The cabin deck was broken and a piece some four inches wide had been laid back leaving a gaping hole the length of the deck. Inside of the boat the tumbled blankets on the bunk showed that some one had but recently arisen, while two fresh loaves of bread and a plate of butter were on the table.

The engines were cold. The supposition is that the occupant of the launch was just about to prepare his breakfast, having stopped the engine while doing so. It was not thought likely that the boat had drifted from shore as it was three miles off land when sighted and the sea was smooth. Captain Shaw of the steamer Beatrice reports having passed a large vessel going north about 3 o'clock which displayed no lights. While he is not sure of its identity, he is positive that it was not one of the local coasters. The launch was brought to Vancouver and the provincial police were notified. They will make inquiries in an effort to locate the owner and solve the mystery surrounding its discovery.

HEAVY SHIPMENTS OF OREGON PRODUCTS LEAVE

Portland, Ore., Aug. 11.—About 250,000 worth of Oregon products left Portland Saturday for Oriental, Australian and European markets aboard the Hamburg-American liner C. Ferdinand Laeiz and the British steamship Oceano.

The cargo leaving on the Hamburg-American steamer consisted of a varied assortment of goods valued at $192,585, according to the manifest filed at the custom-house. Flour is the most important consignment, amounting to 41,225 barrels and valued at $164,408. Of the total 31,854 barrels will be dispatched at Hongkong, 3,250 barrels at Kobe, 1,250 barrels at Manila, 100 barrels at Yokohama, 2,750 barrels at Hongkong, 2,750 barrels at Tientsin. Bound for Port Pirie, Aust., the Oceano, Captain C. S. Newton, got away at noon to-day laden with 3,900,000 feet of lumber valued at $42,000.

"FREIGHTS ARE BOOMING"

Portland, Ore., Aug. 11.—"Freights are booming," is a statement in a cable which was received from one of the large European shipping firms by Fritz Kirchhoff, local agent for the Hamburg-American line, this morning. It also contained the information that but eight of the steamers bringing government coal from the Atlantic to the Pacific remain available for loading outward on this coast. Tonnage for Europe, it stated, commands 40s. and for Japan 17s. 6d. Within the last week there has been an advance of 1s. in steam tonnage to load for the Orient, the quotations being increased from 5s. 6d. to 6s. 6d. The Pacific Export Lumber Company has chartered the Russian barque Marlborough Hill to load at Portland for the United Kingdom at 38s. 9d. The last previous rate paid by the company for the same rate was 50s. The Pacific Export Lumber Company also has engaged the schooner Salmon to load lumber on the river for New Zealand at 50s. She is due in October and the Russian November 1.

SOCKEYE RUN PICKS UP ON SKEENA RIVER SEALING COMPANY'S SECRETARY ON STAND

Prince George Carries Heavy Lists of Passengers; Victorians Take in Trip Tells Commissioner About Sale of Company's Ships; Explains Tanning Arrangements

During the past week the run of sockeye on the Skeena river showed a little spurt and the average for each boat was about 40 fish. The packers are hoping that this run will continue as their pack so far is very small. If it drops off the many Indian, Japanese and white fishermen, who have decided to try their fortune fishing for the canneries in the north, will have a very poor year. The fishermen, generally, make sufficient during the winter, but if the sockeye run turns out poor, to which end the prospects appear to be pointing just at present, the men will have to seek other means of employment, which promise to be rather scarce.

The G. T. P. steamer Prince George, Capt. Donald, which brought the news of the run of sockeye on the Skeena, came into port yesterday morning from the north, and the master of the three-stacker reports a splendid run both north and south. Fog is beginning to settle over the inside passages, owing to the absence of both fires, it is expected that the mist will be as bad this year as in former foggy seasons.

Many People Travelling. Many people are now travelling on the northern boats, and the George brought 105 saloon, and 70 steerage passengers south, which is a big list for this season of the year. Many of the saloon passengers are tourists who are taking advantage of the special excursion rates. Mr. Fowler, of Grimsby, Eng., one of the directors of the Doughty fishing interests, accompanied by his son, returned on the Prince George after inspecting the company's plants in the north. Mr. Brown, manager of the Canadian North Pacific Fisheries, Ltd., also returned after visiting the whaling stations on the Queen Charlotte Islands. He was accompanied by his wife and family on the trip.

SEATTLE TAKES THE FINAL CONTEST

Narveson and Kelly in Pitchers' Battle; Locals Won Saturday's Game

Seattle, Aug. 11.—Seattle stopped Victoria's winning streak yesterday by winning a ten-inning game, 2 to 1. The visitors got one run in the fifth on Meek's two-bagger, a sacrifice and Lamb's single. The locals were held scoreless until the ninth, when, with one out, Narveson hit Martini, who scored from first base on Strait's drive to the center field fence. With the score a tie and one out in the tenth Kelly hit past second, advanced on Shaw's single, and scored the winning run when Jackson hit to right field. Both Narveson and Kelly pitched magnificent ball, Kelly striking out twelve men and Narveson nine. Score:

CROOKALL SCORED FIVE GOALS SATURDAY

Vancouver, Aug. 11.—V. A. C. defeated the Vancouver twelve on Saturday afternoon 6 to 4, in an interesting game. The winners were in the best of shape, while the Vancouver twelve showed a sad lack of condition. The playing of Crookall, the V. A. C. outside home, was a feature of the match, he scoring five goals, three in the first quarter. Harry Pickering had his shoulder dislocated, and when the V. A. C. management refused to drop a man, the Vancouver trainer, Pete Muldoon, had to get into a uniform. The teams and summary:

TIGERS TAKE LAST OF BEAVER SERIES

Tacoma, Aug. 11.—Tacoma made it five out of seven by defeating Vancouver 11 to 2. Vancouver used three pitchers, but could not check the slugging locals. Kippert was ejected from the grounds in the sixth inning for throwing his bat at a girl after he believed the local pitcher was trying intentionally to hit him in the head with a pitched ball. Much wrangling was featured through the game. Score:

FIGHT ASSURED FOR LABOR DAY

Vancouver, B. C., Aug. 11.—Harry Pollock, manager of Freddie Welsh, stated Saturday that he had practically come to an agreement with the Brighthouse management of the terms for the bout and that only a minor matter had to be adjusted now. There is nothing that will cause a hitch in the battle, however, and it can now be definitely stated that Welsh will be Ritchie's opponent.

There will be some dispute over the weight, it is thought. Freddie wants to have the weight 133 ring-side, but Ritchie named 124 for the Rivers bout on July 4, and may hang out for that or even 125 pounds on Labor Day. The referee question will also cause some agitation. Ritchie will want a California referee, while Pollock will likely hold out for Charley White, of New York.

CUP-HOLDERS BEATEN.

New Westminster, Aug. 11.—The new team of the V. A. C. went down to heavy defeat at Queen's Park Saturday, the score of 7-3 scarcely exaggerating the superiority of the young salmonbellies.

KAMLOOPS CLUB WINS ON POINTS

Polo Gymkhana Proves Very Interesting; Election of Association Officers

While Victoria captured the Roper Cup and British Columbia polo championship on Saturday morning, it remained for the Kamloops poloists to carry off the lion's share of the prizes at the gymkhana on Saturday afternoon. This tourney, which marked the close of the carnival polo programme, was favored by beautiful weather, and quite a gathering of Victoria's equine enthusiasts were in attendance. The different races provided plenty of sport, the hurdle races especially being of high order.

Kamloops not only walked off with the majority of the individual prizes, but they also defeated the Victoria wrestling squad, though Mr. Gunn, of the Victoria team put up a plucky struggle against overwhelming odds. The mainland riders appeared to be in their element in the hurdle race, winning all three prizes. The Rimington brothers won first honors in the polo ball race and bending race, L. Rimington winning two first prizes, while he was also a member of the wrestling team. Mrs. Cox won the jumping competition, despite the fact that a number of the polo players took part, while Miss Bury won the stake race for ladies.

At a meeting of the Provincial Polo Association it was decided that all games shall be played under the rules of the Hurlingham Club, though no limit was placed upon the size of the ponies. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, W. Roper, Victoria Polo Club; vice-presidents, Mr. Justice Martin, Victoria, P. C.; and Mr. P. Abbott, Vancouver P. C.; secretary, Captain Jones, Victoria P. C.

Each club is to send one delegate to the central committee.

At the conclusion of the sports the prizes were given by Mrs. Roper.

WALTER JOHNSON NOW LEADS ALL TWIRLERS

Chicago, Aug. 11.—Jake Daubert, Brooklyn's brilliant first-baseman, is climbing steadily toward the top among the batters of the National League. For nearly three games, Daubert has hit at a rate of .344, which gives him rank of sixth. The five ahead of him are Yingling, of Brooklyn, with .393; Charles McDonald, Boston, with .365; Gibson, Pittsburgh, .364; Hyatt, Pittsburgh, .362, and R. Miller, Philadelphia, .358. Walsh, of Philadelphia, ranks seventh in the National with an average of .346. Then comes Cravath, Philadelphia, .340; with Collins, Boston, .333, and Kling, Cincinnati, who winds up the first ten with .328.

Joe and Ty Fall.

Both Jackson and Cobb, whose race has featured the batting of the American League, have at last fallen below the .400 rate? The Cleveland slugger still leads with .533, while Cobb is close on his heels with .528. The next eight are Speaker, Boston, .367; Dan Murphy, Philadelphia, .362; Eddie Collins, Philadelphia, .354; Hendrickson, Boston, .351; Lajoie, Cleveland, .348; McInnis, Philadelphia, .340; Baker, Philadelphia, .338, and Gandji, Washington, .328.

Unofficial records show Bechling leading the American League pitchers, with eleven games won. Then comes the date of compiling the averages. That gives him an average of .846. The next four are:

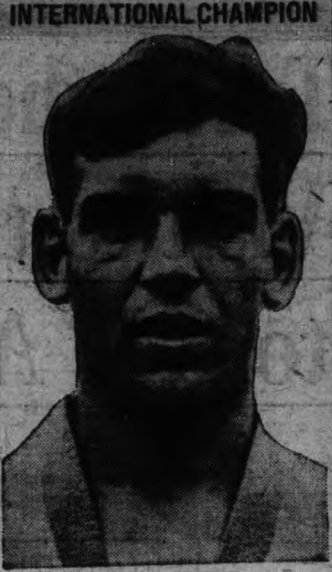

W. L. Pct.
Johnson, Washington	25 5 .833
Brown, Philadelphia	14 8 .787
Bender, Philadelphia	16 4 .766
Wood, Boston	12 5 .706

The first five pitchers in the National League stand as follows:

W. L. Pct.
Demaree, New York	10 2 .833
McQuillan, Pittsburgh	5 1 .833
Mathewson, New York	19 6 .760
Alexander, Philadelphia	15 5 .750
Humphries, Chicago	9 3 .750

There are twenty-two "300" hitters in the National League, according to this week's average, against thirteen in the American.

Don't Worry about the money you spent last week. You can still get the best lunch in town for 35c (including stein of beer) "At The Kaiserhof."

BOBBIE DIBBLE.

Boston.—A breeze made the water in the Charles river basin so choppy that the regular regatta course was abandoned, and races of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen were rowed farther up stream. Senior association single scull, four starters, won by R. Dibble, Don Rowing Club, of Toronto; T. J. Rooney, Ravenwood Boat Club, of Brooklyn, N. Y., second; G. W. Smith, of New York A. C., third. Dibble captured the Canadian title last week at St. Catharines, and will now be groomed for next year's Henley regatta on the Thames. He rowed his first race last year and is looked upon as a sculling wonder.

HOME-BREW BOWLERS FEATURE THE FINALS

Surprises were uncovered in the finals of the carnival lawn bowling tournament, which took place on Beacon Hill on Saturday afternoon, the British Columbia quartette defeating the Highland Scots by three shots, the final score being 15 to 12. The Irish rink captured the consolation, prize and the other competitions were finished as well. The final in the National rink contest was locally fought, and Skip Turner was warmly congratulated upon his great victory at the conclusion of the match.

The rinks were:

British Columbia—P. Turner (skip), W. Walker, Chester Harris, B. H. John; Highland Scots—W. Oliphant (skip), J. Anderson, W. Wood and A. Stewart.

In the consolation Irish rink, skipped by Molony, defeated the Western Canadians, with Robertson as skip, 19 to 2.

John A. Turner's Anglo-Saxon rink defeated the McGoosh rink of Lowland Scots for the fourth prize in a good game. The final results: 1, British Columbia rink (P. Turner, skip); 2, Highland Scots (W. Oliphant, skip); 3, Eastern Canada (W. Melville, skip); 4, Anglo-Saxons (J. A. Turner, skip); consolation, Irish (H. Molony, skip). The Clayton cup was also presented to P. Turner, this year's winner.

Prizes were presented by Mrs. John A. Turner and a beautiful illuminated address was then presented to the club president, Peter Turner, which was signed by over forty members of the club. The entries for the Clan McKenzie cup for doubles will close on Monday, August 12. This is one of the finest cups in the club, and will be keenly contested for. It was presented to the club by G. R. McKenzie, of Glasgow, Scotland, through his agents, Harvey & Briggs, of this city.

LALONDE AGAIN.

Montreal, Aug. 11.—The feature of the day in eastern sporting circles was the appearance of "Newy" Lalonde in a National uniform. Newy not only arrived, but had a good deal to do with the victory of the Frenchmen over the Irish-Canadians, who won by a score of 7-5. Lalonde was almost the whole team, scoring five of the goals and playing equal to anything he has ever shown in the past.

At Toronto—Tecuumshe, 9; Toronto, 2.

LEADS BATTERS

HARRY MECK.

Victoria's renowned fence buster, who got two of the Bees' hits at Seattle yesterday, one of them hitting the Bull Durham sign which nets the lucky batter $50 dollars. Meek is clouting the ball at a .385 clip and leads the rest of the sluggers by a wide margin.

AS SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

Perhaps Seattle was entitled to one game last week.

Now that Seattle has been passed over the Bees will turn their attention to the Tigers.

Dugdale is determined that he will have a winner to open his new park with the end of this month.

There is an entirely new spirit in the Victoria Ball club, and while the season is too far advanced for pennant hopes, the Bees should finish in the first three.

Johnny Rawlings is holding in sensational style at second, and his debut with the Cincinnati Club next spring will be watched with interest.

Joe McGinnity still continues the whole works with the Tigers, but he will have to get all the breaks to take the series from the Bees this week.

New York and the Mackmen continue their winning gait in the majors, and the fans are already buying up their transportation for the New York and Philadelphia games this fall.

Bob Brown's team has slumped greatly in the past three weeks, and is now but thirty points ahead of the Seattle club, which gives Raymond another chance for the pennant.

Charlie Swain has improved in his hitting of late, and with Meek and Kippert lead the league in batting.

JOHNSTON WINS.

New York, Aug. 11.—William Johnston, of San Francisco, won the New York State lawn tennis championship in the singles and becomes the successor of M. E. McLoughlin, also of California. In the final match of the tournament Johnston defeated S. H. Voshell, of the Borough Park Club, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

DUNDEE AND WHITE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 11.—Johnny Dundee, of New York, and Jack White, of Chicago, ceased training to-day for their battle to-morrow at the Vernon Arena. They are carded to go 20 rounds at catch-weights. Ad. Wolgast, scheduled to meet the winner Administration Day, will leave soon for a hurtling trip to Alas! with a Jim Jeffries.

REMARKED ON THE SIDE

Northwestern Race Grows Tighter

Seattle's victory yesterday and the win of the Tigers over the Beavers, places Brownies and Tillikums within striking distance of one another this week, and a big upset in the standing of the Northwestern League may be looked for. Seattle and Portland will settle once and for all which club is to give Vancouver a battle for the championship and with the Bees improving right along, they may be expected to go farther ahead in the league standing at the expense of the Tacoma club. McGinnity's crew do not look as strong as the Bees from any angle, and only a complete reversal of their present gait will enable the Tacoma team to trample on Victoria's hopes. This week will be a fateful one for all clubs. Spokane plays Vancouver and the Indians must get at least an even break if they are to get out of last place, while on the other hand, Seattle must win a majority of the games from Portland if they are to give the Beavers a battle.

Lack of Competition Hurts Local Athletes

Hal Beasley's victory in the century at the Carnival athletic meet helped to keep Victoria in the running, but the sports brought out the real reason why Victoria's track and field athletes, outside of the sprinters, do not shape up with those from the other Coast cities. Thursday's meet was practically the first real chance that Victoria track men have had this year of getting in their races. When their work is compared with that of other clubs, it is no disgrace for the island athletes to fall in competition with Frisco, Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and Spokane stars. What Victoria really needs is for the J. B. A. A. to organize a series of weekly or semi-weekly track meets, open to the island, with points as a reward. This would encourage the track and field candidates. It is not necessary to engage a coach for a start, but there is athletic material in the Capital which is being wasted simply for want of proper handling and training. It is only Hal Beasley's natural ability that has enabled him to come to the front so fast, but even he could be improved with weekly handicap races throughout the entire summer. This suggestion might also be followed out by other clubs in the Capital. Joint handicap meets would bring about the same results.

Polo Championship Comes to the Capital.

Victorians did not have an opportunity of witnessing games for the International Polo championship between England and America, but the Roper Cup final on Saturday morning at the Willows was about the most exciting polo contest ever staged in the Dominion. This game, which is a very expensive sport, deserves better encouragement in Victoria and the efforts of a small band of enthusiasts are well worthy of reward in the shape of increased interest in the sport. The Roper trophy will remain in the Capital for a year, when it is hoped that polo will have risen to one of the foremost places among sports of the province.

Oarsmen in Real Come-Back

Victoria crews redeemed the poor showing of the Capital City oarsmen at the recent P. N. A. C. regatta, on Saturday afternoon, when they took two out of the three feature events of the Carnival regatta on the harbor course. The J. B. A. A. senior four won the four-oared race after a stiff contest with the Portland four, while Billy Kennedy defeated Desbrisay, of the Nelson Rowing club in the finals for the sculling event. Portland were tipped off as winners of the senior four and the victory of the J. B. A. A. crew was a pleasing surprise. The winners had been forced to compete at Indian River in very poor shape, because of several accidents which broke into their training, but their victory on Saturday proves that they are as good a crew as there is on the Coast to-day.

TO-DAY IN PUGILISTIC ANNALS

1899—Kid McCoy knocked out two men at one session at Davenport, Ia., putting Jimmy Dugan away in the first round and stopping "Australian Jack" Graham in the fourth. Meeting two or three men in a night was a favorite stunt of McCoy's. In 1888, at a show in Indianapolis, he knocked out John Thierney and Jim Blackwell. His biggest stunt in that line, however, was pulled off in London in 1901, when he knocked out four men in one night. He knocked out Dave Barry in the second round, Jack Madden in the fourth, Jack Scales, in the first and then rounded off the night by stopping Sandy Ferguson, the clever American heavyweight.

1909—Frankie Coney defeated Frankie White in 15 rounds at St. Joseph.

NEW RECORDS.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 11.—Fifty-one started in the swimming race across Toronto bay, a distance of one and three-eighths miles. Four ladies were entered and all finished the race inside of fifty minutes. R. H. M. Lounes won in 35.5.

Frank McGill, of the M. A. A., broke the Canadian 100-yard swimming record at Halifax, in the Canadian championships, swimming the distance in 1:02.45. Gooday, the M. A. A. A., won the 2:20; McGill won the 440; Lyons, of M. A. A. A., won the high dive; Behrens, of New York, the variety dive, and Gooday the 100 yards on back.

FITCHNER SHOULD HELP BEES IN THEIR PENNANT SPRINT

Victoria Club After First Division Berth; Leaders After New Twirlers; Tigers Here on Wednesday.

Winning eight out of the last ten games in which they have taken part, the Bees are right now preparing for a long haul into the first division. The acquisition of Bert Fitchner, of the North Yakima team, gives the Bees another experienced right-hander, and with the present staff performing at top speed, there is no reason why the Bees should not go to the front with a rush. Fitchner is a noted speed artist, and was with Portland at the start of the season, being released to Seattle because of his lack of control. He has apparently learned to handle his smoke and should be a winner for the local club. There are other changes to be made in the club, and it was expected that Zimmerman, the former "Frisco" outfielder, would get into the game at Tacoma today, Lamb being benched, while Alberts was to play third.

A rumor to the effect that Narveson had been sold to a big league club could not be confirmed at baseball headquarters this morning because of the absence of Secretary McConnell, who went to Tacoma with the club yesterday. Mr. McConnell is determined that the capital shall have a first division club, and will not rest until he has gathered together a winner. The sale of Narveson has been under discussion for some time and it is probable that the sturdy Swede will be sold for full delivery. With Fitchner also in line, there is no reason why the Bees should not start all over again on another winning streak.

Dugdale is at his wits' end to strengthen his Seattle club, while Bob Brown's twirlers are going back on him. Dugdale sent McIvor, his young southpaw, to Walla Walla in exchange for Marshall, a slugging outfielder, and other changes are coming as soon as new men can be secured. Kelly has made good as a regular and Riordan is also available. Fullerton is not as dependable as of yore, while Melkie will probably be let out unless he can hit a winning stride.

Vancouver has signed up a new phenom named Harstad, whom Bob Brown secured at Tacoma. The youngster is said to have a grand curve ball, while he has all kinds of smoke. Brown is badly crippled just now with Walsh and Konnick out of the game, and he has signed up Finky Griddle, who has just about made the rounds of the Northwestern League clubs this season. Kiddo Wilson is laid up with a sore arm, and has been ordered to rest for a fortnight, while Schmitts and Hall are also troubled with sore whips.

Iron Man McGinnity is still sticking to his old twirling staff of Belford, Kurfess, Kaufman, Giret and himself. He has been getting away pretty lucky with that bunch, but take McGinnity away from the club and they would hardly win a game. Victoria outclasses the Tacoma club in the pitching department, as fielders and also as a slugging club. The Bees are looked to win the series with a couple of games to spare during the coming week. Portland will have a chance to pull Seattle out of second place, and it is up to the Pippins to make their sprint now. The Bees return home Wednesday for the Tacoma series.

Cincinnati, Aug. 11.—It was rumored yesterday that resentment in the ranks of the New York National League team over the trading by Manager McGraw of Otis Crandall, pitcher, for Catcher Larry McLean, of St. Louis, manifested itself in an exchange of flouts between Manager McGraw and some of his players late last night. Cooler headed players prevented the affair from going beyond the early stages, it is said.

INDIANS GET THE FINAL FROM PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., Aug. 11.—Spokane took the final game of the series from Portland yesterday, 5 to 2. It was an evenly played game up to the seventh, with the score 2 to 1 in Portland's favor. Then Pitcher Mays wavered, and before the inning was over Spokane had the game well sewed up. Fitzgerald, Portland's cast-off, made a three-bagger in this inning, which netted two of Spokane's runs.

YACHTING: FINAL

Saturday witnessed the wind-up of the Carnival regatta programme at Cadboro Bay, when Mr. Speers captured the Evinrude race for three laps of the Cadboro Bay course, from a large field. The close of the regatta was regretted by the visiting carmen and the excellent manner in which the events were conducted is a good augury for next year's yachting programme during the carnival.

WILLS VICTOR

Sydney, N. S., Aug. 11.—Matt Wells, the English lightweight pugilist, defeated Hughie McHugh, the Australian champion, here, in a twenty-round contest on points. Wells had the better of the outfighting, but he appeared to have received the greater amount of punishment. The decision was given a mixed reception by the 17,000 spectators.

PREMIER TEAMS LOST AT CRICKET

Both Victoria and Albion Went Down to Defeat on Saturday

OAK BAY AND INCOGS WERE TRIUMPHANT

Sparks and Finlayson Gave Great Performances With Bat and Ball

The performance of young Finlayson, of the University Inco, in taking six good Victoria wickets for 37 runs, besides being the most outstanding bowling feat in the city on Saturday, laid the foundations of an easy victory for his side over a representative Victoria eleven. F. A. Sparks was responsible for the superstructure with a glorious innings of 115, not out. The Victorian cricketers had in a most disappointing manner on a slow pitch.

They lost two good batsmen very early on when Gray and Scott both went out to Finlayson; sum total, one run. Sparks at the other end served to vary the bowling, and trundled very steadily without, however, much success. J. H. Gillespie, the next man in, played for a time but lost his wicket, who ran himself out. Collinson got his leg in front of a straight one from Sparks and had to go, and Cane was beaten all the way with a good length breaking ball from Finlayson. Reeves made some good hits and enjoyed some luck, being not out at the innings' close, which came very early.

For the rest of the afternoon the Victoria hopefuls enjoyed a few hours' leather-hunting. Hobden and Collinson opened the bowling and the former soon bowled Finlayson with a ball that came in a lot from the leg side. Sparks and Hudson set up a decent partnership until the latter was out l. b. w. to Gray, who had gone on vice Collinson at the school end. Wenman then helped Sparks to add nearly 50 runs; at least he kept up his wicket while Sparks hit out lustily. Wenman's style can be judged from the fact that he was at the wicket forty-five minutes for six runs. However, he had the satisfaction of making the winning "it," just before having his wickets spread-eagled by Gillespie.

Sparks continued to hit out right merrily and did not give a single chance throughout an immaculate display. He was not out at the close and fully deserved the ovation which greeted him. The fielding on both sides was particularly good, and Wenman's dismissal of Scott by a c-tch in the deep was the most striking feature in this respect. Incogs won easily by eight.

CUMBERLAND WANTS MAIN C. N. P. RAILWAY

Fears Side-tracking on Spur of Proposed Extension From Port Alberni

Feeling themselves likely to be left between the two railways which plan to thread this island without either passing through the city, the residents of Cumberland have been for some time moving to urge the Canadian Northern Pacific railway to alter its location so that it will enter the city with the main line rather than with a spur. The Canadian Pacific railway is two miles east of the town, and the proposed location of the Canadian Northern in two and a half miles west. Correspondence has been passing with the Victoria Board of Trade on the subject, and a deputation to Sir Richard McBride has been planned for some weeks.

Learning that the Premier will leave for England to-morrow, it was decided at the end of last week to hurry the meeting, and the local officials of the Victoria board secured an appointment with ministers at noon to-day, for an opportunity to urge that the government make it a condition of the guarantee of the bonds that the main Canadian Northern line should pass through the mining city.

The local board was represented at the meeting with the Premier by Col. Friar, Simon Leiser, A. C. Flumerfelt, A. C. McLean and W. J. Sandeja, and was introduced by H. B. Thomson, M. P. The deputation from the Cumberland Board of Trade was composed of J. N. McLeod, president; A. McKimmon, secretary; A. Maxwell (also representing the city council), T. E. Rife and J. H. McMillan (also representing the Conservative Association). The Premier heard their views, and said the subject would have consideration.

"FU" O' BUNKERS.

An enthusiastic golfer, one of those fellows who can speak nothing but golf, was one day taken by a friend to our local observatory to have a look through the building.

The golfer's friend, who was a keen astronomer, got him to look at the moon through the telescope, and then asked him what he thought of the planet. To his amazement he answered back: "It's a' richt, but it's awfu' fu' o' bunkers."—World of Golf.

BELLS ON BICYCLES.

Civic By-law Must Be Complied With
by Owners: Fine Imposed for Failure.

As a warning to bicyclists who are careless in regard to equipping their wheels with bells E. W. Bishop was today fined $3 for having ridden on Fort Street on Monday afternoon last without there being a bell on his bicycle. Chief Langley informed the court that as there had been several complaints of people being knocked down by bicyclists who had no bell to warn pedestrians of their approach he had issued orders to his men to enforce the requirements of the city by-law strictly.

Everyone who rode a wheel should know that the by-law compelled him to have a bell on his wheel, he said, and he wished to have it made known that no excuse would be taken by the police after this.

Miss Alberta James and Mr. W. B. Colvin Principals in Pretty Event.

A wedding of considerable local interest took place last Wednesday afternoon, when Alberta, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. James, of Carrie street, and Mr. Walter Burgess Colvin, chief clerk in the attorney-general's office, were united in marriage. Rev. Mr. Connell performing the ceremony in St. Saviour's church, Victoria West. The bride, who wore ivory satin trimmed with sprigs of orange blossom, carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley, and wore as her only ornament the groom's gift of a gold bracelet. She was given away by her father, and was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Maggie James and Miss Violet Bennett, her cousins. Both wore pretty frocks of pink satin with hats to match, their bouquets being of pink carnations. Little Vera Madeline made a charming flower girl in a dainty frock of cream cologne. Mr. Jack Dowler, an old schoolmate of the bridegroom, acted as best man. A reception was held after the wedding ceremony, at the residence of the bride's parents, following a dainty repast to which a few of the more intimate members of the immediate families sat down earlier in the evening.

Consistent among the numerous handsome gifts received by the happy pair was a purse of gold from the attorney-general and the bridegroom's colleagues in the office of the fisheries department. The bridegroom's gifts were: To the bride, a gold bracelet; to the bridesmaids, pearl and sapphire rings, and to the best man, gold cufflinks. Mr. and Mrs. Colvin are spending their honeymoon making a leisurely tour of the Coast cities.

DUMPED INTO HARBOR

Construction Company Fined for Turning Rock From Excavation
Under Wharf.

A case of an unusual kind was before the police magistrate this morning, when the British Columbia Strait & Contracting Company, Limited, was charged with depositing waste material, rock and earth, in Victoria harbor at the foot of Telegraph street. The company has the contract for the excavation for the Swift Canadian Company's building at the corner of Store and Telegraph streets, and has been depositing the material under Porter's wharf, some of it being washed by the tide under the city wharf.

Capt. Charles E. Clarke, harbor-master and port warden, produced the regulations governing the matter, which show that it is illegal to deposit waste material below high water mark in any harbor. Under these, he said, the fine was $50, but he thought he would be justified in asking that the case be withdrawn so that it could be brought under the Navigable Waters Protection Act, when the fine would be $300. It was rather an aggravated case, he said, because the company has not only excavated 100 cubic yards of material, but after being told to stop dumping it in the harbor had gone on doing so.

George W. Allison, superintendent of the city incinerator, stated that he had remonstrated with one of the men at the place regarding the matter, and that it was an offence to put material in the harbor. Some of it had been washed under the city wharf, and it would take $1,000 to take this out again.

B. C. Andrus, manager of the company, expressed regret for breaking the law, but explained that the company had written permission from Learning Brothers to place the material under the wharf by taking up some of the planking, and was under the impression that the space below was the property of that firm. He was quite willing to remove what had gone under the city wharf and put in bulkheads to keep it back.

The fine of $50 provided for in the act was imposed, and Capt. Clarke drew the attention to the court to the fact that the Shipping Act says one-half of this shall be paid to the Dominion.

Columbia Coast Mission Hears Encouraging Reports at Semi-Annual Meeting.

The principal feature of the semi-annual meeting of the board of management of the Columbia Coast Mission, which met last Tuesday, was the report read by Rev. John Antle, superintendent of the mission, in which he gave a resume of his just-completed six-months' trip in Eastern Canada, Newfoundland, England and other parts. Mr. Antle reported that the working staff of missionaries, doctors and nurses of the mission were in better condition than ever before.

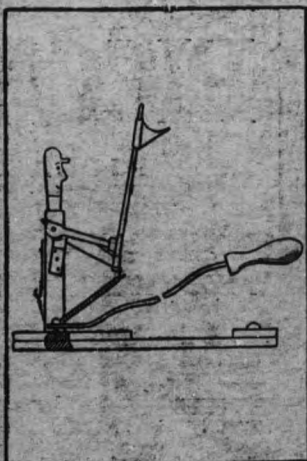

In presenting the financial report for the half year just ended, T. F. Barton, the secretary, and to whom, coupled with the name of the financial agent, Rev. C. W. Houghton, the first speaker mentioned, made particular reference in an appreciative manner, showed that there had been a total expenditure for the six months of $11,698.37. Owing to the collection of $4,747.50 made principally through the efforts of Mr. Houghton, the floating debt had been reduced to $3,491.34. The British Columbia Church Aid Society had donated the sum of $5,000 through Mr. Antle during his visit to England, for the purpose of installing a new engine in the "Columbia."

The meeting showed great confidence in the future of the work, and expressed its satisfaction with the present conditions. The Right Rev. J. C. Roper, D. D., president, and others present were the Right Rev. A. U. de Pencier, D. D.; the Very Rev. Dean Doull, the Ven. Archdeacon Scriven, the Rev. F. A. P. Chadwick, of St. Paul's, Vancouver; the Rev. C. W. Houghton, and Messrs. H. S. Crotty, E. Baynes-Reed and T. F. Barton.

MANIKIN BALLPLAYER

Makes Lusty Swipe at Ball When Spring is Released.

An ingenious and amusing toy has been designed by a Massachusetts man and is shown in the illustration. A manikin, with pivoted arms and a bat in its hands, is fixed on a base board. On the other end of the board a ball rests in a shallow hollow. A spring reaches from the manikin's hands to his feet and there is a catch in the back by means of which his hands can be pulled up and the spring stretched. A cord with a handle on it is attached to the catch and releases it when pulled. When the catch is released the spring pulls the figure's hands down and the bat, which has a wing on the end, makes a sweeping slam at the ball. Usually it hits it, being adjusted for an accurate shot, but a miss is no more than even a Ty Cobb might do.

STRIKING CEREMONY

IN THE GREAT ABBEY

When Chapel of Henry VII.
Was Re-inaugurated as Home of Knights of Bath

There was a brilliant scene in the ancient Abbey of Westminster recently, when the King led the Knights of the Bath in the ceremony of re-inaugurating the chapel of Henry VII. as the home of the Order. The Abbey was crowded with princes and politicians, peers and peeresses and military and naval notabilities, and it was an impressive picture when the great throng rose to greet the royal procession.

The Abbey Beadle, carrying a silver mace, led the way, and after him followed trumpeters and a surmounted cross-bearer, while the scarlet-clad children of the Chapel Royal led the white-robed choir boys into the oaken stalls. The minor canons came in red cassocks, and following them the canons of the Order, led by the tall, stately figure of Canon Carnegie, in white robes. Bishop Boyd-Carter, pater carried the Bible before him, and then came the nobles in procession of all, the Knights Grand Cross carrying their feathered hats in their hands. There were Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, Lord Charles Bessborough, and Lord Welby, all of them full of honor and dignity, "ancient and grave knights." Each was wearing a mantle of claret-colored silk, lined with white and about his neck he had a collar of gold.

At the end of the procession came the Dean of Westminster, "carrying the Oath and Admonition fairly engrossed upon vellum," followed by the Grand Master of the Order, the Duke of Connaught; and then, clad in a long cloak held by two pages, came the King, looking well and bronzed. There was a shortened version of Morning Prayer, with an anthem specially composed by Sir Hubert Parry; after which the Knights Grand Cross, those who had already been installed and those who were about to be installed, led by canons and gentlemen-at-arms, marched to the chapel, where the Queen, wearing the ribbon of the Order, and Princess Mary and a few of the Knights whose health made it difficult for them to undergo the strain of the whole ceremony, already were seated.

"To Defend Maidens." A special gangway, covered with red cloth, had been built across the passage separating the chapel from the church, and over this gangway the procession passed into the beautiful little sanctuary. This part of the ceremony was witnessed only by those taking part in it, and a few pressmen and court officials.

The Knights Grand Cross, who belong to the highest rank of the Order, sat in stalls surrounded by silken banners and helms and shields; and when they had seen the King conducted to his stall they sat down, while the Grand Master made obeisance. When the ceremonies of grace had been completed and the Grand Master was installed, the Dean administered the following oath to him and to the newly-admitted Knights:—

"You shall honor God above all things, you shall be steadfast in the faith of Christ; you shall love the King, your sovereign lord, and him and his rights defend to your power. You shall defend maidens, widows, and orphans in their rights, and shall suffer no extortion as far as you may prevent it, and of as great honor be this Order unto you as ever it was to any of your progenitors or others." When the installations were over the Knights came from the stalls and stood beneath their banners. The King then passed between the lines of Knights, bowing low as he passed, and went to the altar, where he knelt and made offerings of gold and silver. When he had done this he returned to his seat and then the Grand Master made similar offerings. He and the Knights drew their swords, while the Dean admonished them to use them "to the glory of God, the defence of the Gospel, the maintenance of your sovereign's right and honor and of all equity and justice to the utmost of your power."

The swords, which were held with their hilts towards the altar, were then sheathed, and the procession returned to the Abbey, where the service was completed. The benediction was pronounced, the congregation sang a verse of the National Anthem, and then the choristers and the Knights and their Sovereign Lord the King, making a great and brilliant procession, marched through the north transept to the House of Lords.

GOVERNOR AS SWINEHERD.

Had Vagabond Life After Being in Prison for Embezzlement.

From statements made when he was under the influence of drink, an extraordinary story of a man's downfall has come to light in Russia.

Some while ago the governor of a province lived a swineherd for his farm at Miatopolak. The man had not long been at work when his fellow servants told their master that the new employee made the most extraordinary statements when he was in a drunken condition, and used to say that he was really governor of the Don Cossacks province.

The swineherd was summoned before his master, who is said to have found to his great surprise that the man's story had a foundation of truth. The guardian of the pigs had, eight years before, been governor of the province, but had been sent to prison for embezzlement.

After his term of imprisonment had come to an end he had led a vagabond's life until, impelled by a desire to return to the scene of his former exploits, he had returned to the province, where he accepted the job as swineherd on the farm of the new governor.

Are You Drinking Pure Cocoa or Cocoa Mixed with Starch?

Cocoa is made by grinding cocoa beans and pressing out some of their fat or "cocoa butter". The removal of the excess fat leaves the cocoa more perfectly digestible.

A common way to cheapen cocoa is by adding starch.

A leading English physician says that starch added to cocoa reduces the "nutritious gluten and stimulating theobromine."

Lowney's contains no starch. It is as pure as cocoa can be made.

It is produced in our spic-and-span factory at Montreal. Lowney's Cocoa conforms with every requirement that goes to make cocoa wholesome and appetizing.

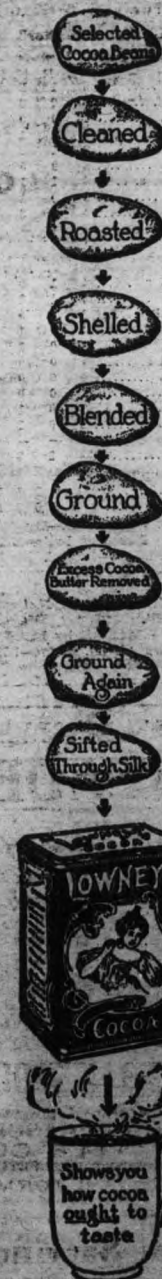

You will never learn how delicious cocoa can be until you have tasted Lowney's.

Sold by grocers. In tins—10c to 50c sizes.

PILLOW A PRESERVER

Keeps Head Well Above Water and Leaves Limbs Free.

Since the sinking of the Titanic the patent office has been deluged with applications on life preservers. One of the latest of these is that shown here with and designed by a Maryland man: An elongated pillow, filled with buoyant, non-absorbent material, has a narrow transverse slot through which the head is passed. There are also devices by which the adjacent portions of the bag may be fastened around the chest, and the ends extend back and front for additional support. The advantage of this preserver is that only the head is above water, and as the average person weighs only 150 pounds in the water, the body below the pillow has very little effect on its buoyancy. The arms and legs are left perfectly free.

FULL LENGTH BLOUSE.

Pink and white striped cotton, with plain white, are combined in this little dress, the darker trimming bands being of the fadeless red cotton.

In the back the collar is cut square across in sailor style and the striped material extends entirely across, bloused a little, as at the sides.

THRILLING MYSTERY OF STOLEN NECKLACE

London News and Leader

Everybody is talking about the mystery of the stolen pearl necklace.

Gaboriau, Poe, Doyle, could never have produced the first chapter of a thrilling detective romance with more spirit or more promise of a dramatic denouement. A necklace of pearls valued at an enormous sum of £150,000, packed and sealed and stamped, is handed into the post office in the Rue de Provence at Paris, destined for London.

In London the precious packet comes all with little or no delay, and presumably intact. But when it is opened by Mr. Mayer, the dealer in priceless gems, in Hatton Garden, the pearls have vanished and in their place is a neat little collection of lumps of French sugar!

There, in a paragraph, is the opening chapter of this romance, and all the world is waiting for the story to develop and more characters to appear on the scene in Chapter II. But it is not likely that there will be a second chapter for a very long time to come. The author is at present in complete and modest retirement, resting on his laurels.

There are, so far, absolutely no clues; the few theories that have been put forward can be dismissed quite briefly, and the police are not anxious that their movements should be recorded at present at any rate.

The "Diamond Coterie."

Since the news of the robbery was first made known, no time has been wasted. The "Diamond Coterie" of Scotland Yard—a little band of jewel experts whose knowledge of continental and West End "crooks" is extensive and peculiar—were speedily turned on to the business under the immediate direction of Chief Inspector Ward. The box in which the pearls had been placed was measured, photographed, and all sides and examined for traces of finger prints.

This examination showed one thing, at any rate. The box had been opened and closed again in a tremendous hurry. It had been "mended up" with slap-dash carelessness, too—just enough to carry the precious box through to London without exciting unnecessary comment from the postal officials. Two or three breathless seconds only were available in which to transform a hundred and fifty thousand pounds' worth of pearls into a haphazard of sugar.

Where could this have been done? Nowhere, the detectives think, but in the post office between the short time the box left Mr. Salomons' hands and the moment of its disappearance in the mail bag for conveyance to the boat. The mail bag was sealed by the official French postal seal, and that seal was never tampered with. Hence the pretty obvious theory that the robbery was committed in France (the lumps of café sugar support that, strongly) and not only in France, but in the Paris post office.

From Paris there is a certain line of communication with Amsterdam and Antwerp and Brussels, and other continental cities beloved by artists in the shaping of diamonds, the matching and stringing of pearls—and the stealing of them.

In London practically nothing was done, because there was practically nothing to do. London is just a looker-on.

Knowing Dealers.

The tremendous risk of robbery seems to be hardly worth the candle. To all the dealers of precious stones in Europe that matter, these wonderful pearls are as well known as the Mona Lisa is to the big art connoisseur. You might as well try to sell the necklace in its entirety for any considerable amount as, say, the Cullinan Diamond or the Orb from the Tower. Singly, the pearls might be disposed of—one here and one there at long intervals—but at very great risk. The thief with the Mayer necklace in his pocket must feel, one might imagine, just about as comfortable as the Rev. Mr. Rolles felt with the Rajah's diamond in his possession.

Somewhat advanced the theory that the theft was committed just for the "glory" of the thing, and that the purloiner of this splendid necklace is to be ranked among the artists of whom, up to the other week, the lifter of the Ascot cup was the most brilliant ornament.

Mr. Mayer himself has a theory. He has whispered it to the police, but to anybody else his lips are sealed. He thinks, by the way, that many of the pearls will gradually find their way back to him, one by one.

"Once in circulation again," he says, "it would be impossible to lose track of them. Everybody in the trade knows all about them. Any dealer would instantly identify them by their beautiful, warm, rosy tint."

To Win a Woman's Smile?

They may have been stolen for the decking of a woman, as the Duchess of Sutherland's famous gems were. That prince of artists, "Harry the Valet," an accomplished "crook," and one of the cleverest and most daring thieves hunted by the police, brought off his memorable coup just to please a woman—an ex-Gaiety girl, whose amazing adventures before and behind the footlights have yet to be written. Harry calmly walked into the Duchess's railway compartment and calmly walked out again, under the eyes of her maid, with the jewel case in his hand. He did it just for a smile. It was a long time before the police walked, early one spring morning, into a little bedroom all chintz and Chippendale, and found the Gaiety favorite softly sleeping, with diamonds blazing and rubies burning on her slender throat. And Harry, confounded with sleep, was quite content to go quietly.

Very soon after this there followed the robbery of the Marquis of Anglesys jewels at a Piccadilly hotel. The "butterfly marquis" was easy game. He had a passion for extravaganzas of all kinds, but most of all for dressing-gowns, neckties and jewels. His collection of jewels was rich and rare. It included one huge pearl pin of immense value.

A ragged valet was the villain in this tragedy-comedy, as he was in the case of the Duchess, and here, too, there was an "alluring" lady in the case. And again, the jewels, or most of them (including the fabulous pearl), were recovered by Scotland Yard. Indeed, there have been very few robberies of valuable gems—in London, at any rate—which have not been followed by complete or partial recovery of the lost property sooner or later.

If diamonds and pearls are hard to steal, they are harder still to get rid of to the satisfaction of the thief. And the more valuable the gems, the more likely is it that they will turn up again sooner or later.

GAS.

It has to be confessed that the minister was rather long-winded. During the "fiftieth" (says the Western Mail) a young wife in the congregation remembered that she had left the Sunday dinner in the gas range without regulating the flame. She hastily wrote a note and slipped it to her husband, who was an usher.

He, thinking it was intended for the minister, calmly walked up and laid it on the pulpit.

The minister paused, took the note with a smile, which changed into a terrific frown as he read—"Please hurry home and shut off the gas."

PARDONABLE.

A lady was visiting the studio of a post-impressionist.

"Now that, surely, is one of your best works, hanging on that nail there?" she said.

"Oh, that," explained the master, "is my palette."—The Bystander.

CANADIAN CELEBRITIES

Hon. Arthur Meighen

The Most Bashful Looking Man in the Commons, But—

In Goldsmith's comedy, "The School for Scandal," there is a character, who at first sight appears to be a regular ripper, but to ladies of real quality, as much as an evening primrose. The new solicitor-general in the Dominion cabinet looks from the gallery like the last member to say "Boo" in the House without a stimulant and a stack of notes. But when he gets up to speak he is seen to be just about as bashful as a torpedo or a swordfish.

Meighen looks like a juvenile understudy to Abe Lincoln. A thin rake of a pale-faced man, in the prize ring he would be a featherweight. You might poke him through a picket fence or draw him through a knot-hole and not hurt him. Knowing that he is expected to take part in a big debate, you at once pity him. Quite superfluous, Meighen is never so happy as when he is ripping the seams of opposition coats or tannous his bete noir, F. B. Carleton, from Carleton, N. B. When he gets into the swing of a debate he is like a phantom that has suddenly found a voice. You fancy Hon. Bob Rogers picking up the member from Portage and putting him on his left hand, saying to him gently:

"Now don't be scared, little fellow; I won't let 'em abuse you."

But just wait till this little kingbird gets loose at some of the hawks on the other side—the feathers soon come fluttering down.

Meighen is the youngest man in the cabinet. Hon. Tom White is ten years older; and he's several years below the average in that hefty, quite venerable council of oracles. The new minister was born near the pretty little stone-built town of St. Mary's, Ont., that gave to the world both Nora Clench, violinist, and Agnes Knox, who twenty years ago used to be locally famous at elocutionary entertainments. No doubt when he was at the St. Mary's Collegiate Meighen heard Agnes Knox in more than one burst of elocution that made him ambitious to stand up and speak out as well in meeting. No doubt on anniversary Sundays he listened to the latest Presbyterian preachers, such as Doctor Caven, Principal Grant and a few others, half wondering whether after all he wouldn't do well to go into the ministry.

But he was only a girlish sort of youth, about the size of a hollyhock bush when he left the pastoral little town on the Thames and started to attend Toronto University. That was in 1892, the year after Sir John Macdonald died, when Toryism in Canada was beginning to get the ragged edge, and when young men were still on a melancholy march away from Canada to the land of the dollar and the doughnut.

At Varsity Meighen was just one year behind the most brilliant coterie of young men that ever went out of Queen's Park. The year of '95 was marked by Norman Duncan, Arthur Stringer, the late James Tucker, Herman Greenwood and Mackenzie King, who was the boy member of the late cabinet. The old files of "Varsity," the college paper, contain many references to Greenwood and King, but concerning Meighen "Varsity" is almost sadly dumb. The files of 1894 and '95, when he should have begun to be picked by the faculty and the students for some sort of winner, have no record of his being on the editorial board, or the football team, or in the Glee Club, or even mentioned in Corridor Gullings. He never wrote poetry. In the strenuous days when the famous bolt of Tucker and his band made the old regime totter—where was Meighen? The only time his name seems to have been mentioned was when he took part in a mock parliament. In this amiable diversion he was exceedingly adept—though whenever he made a speech the way he used his words made him resemble a man with a coat three sizes too big. In all college debates, especially in the mock parliament, Meighen was counted as one of the ablest men in any of the years. He had a huge talent for picking flaws in an opposition argument or siding up the constitutional aspects of a debate.

Yet none of his classmates and none of the faculty ever picked him for a public career. Greenwood and King were both recognized as men with good forensic ability. Meighen, excited, no comment. His course was political science. He does not seem to have been brilliant. There is no record of scholarships or medals that he won. He took no part in the revolution headed by Tucker. He was the quietest man in his year, gliding like a disembodied phantom about the corridors, across the campus, never particularly well dressed, always looking as though he had difficulty paying his board bills—but always popular.

In 1896, just at the time of the Klondike rush, and the year that Charlie Cross went from Osgoode Hall to Edmonton, Meighen got off the train at Portage la Prairie at the end of the broad trail from Winnipeg, a raw town at the junction of a tangle of trails that have since become a web of transcontinental railroads.

Even that much of the west must have been a bewildering. He went into a law office and did some commercial business on the side. And he would have been the loneliest young man that ever was swallowed up by the prairies—if he hadn't hung like a young bulldog to politics, which, like religion or music, has kept many a man busy when other folks were asleep.

For there was no money making in Portage. Law was slow as molasses in winter. But Meighen knew that the west is a human sieve that keeps only the big stones on the top. He had gift of gab and powers of argument enough to push him out in the courts and on the stump. In 1897 he was elected as member for Portage. He got his first glimpse of Ottawa. A wispy little fellow, a man, he stuck with the back benches on the opposition studying politics as a hawk does a flock of hens. Here was a new big game. Here were orators and debaters that put most of the Presbyterian preachers into oblivion. Here was a party anxious to get out of power a party that had gone in the very year Meighen left Varsity with a B. A. tacked on to his name.

Here also was George Elias Foster. No doubt Meighen studied all the kinds of oratory there were in that House; no doubt he sat in amazed admiration when Laurier rose, and gaped at Hugh Guthrie and Michael Clark and Honorable W. H. Fugate. No doubt he paid great heed to R. L. Borden, the man with an obvious moral purpose.

But of all men whose art in debate seems to have set the pace for young Tories anxious to get under the armor of that solid phalanx of Grits, George E. Foster was easily the first to be copied by Meighen. He himself may not think so. But the Meighen of three years ago was a long-winded, awkward, tiresome speaker, just beginning to get his cue from Foster in the front row. The Meighen of 1913 is a quick-witted, hawk-eyed master of repartee who, whenever he was not being put up by the government leaders to crack the whip over the old guard opposite, took his keenest delight in shooting bars of sarcasm into Frank Carleton, the pugnaous member for Carleton, N. B.

And now Conservatives who at college saw no particular genius in Meighen begin to see in this young man a future Canada premier.

about to leave he sprang upon Mrs. Roudier, and tried to kill her. The woman struggled with her assailant, and her cries for help were heard by a neighbor on the floor above. Hearing the man coming down, the detective fled to the street, where he was pursued by two policemen, who captured him in a cellar where he tried to hide. At the police station Maurice confessed his crime, and he said he was almost penniless, and had a wife and two small children. He called on Mrs. Roudier with the intention of asking for a loan of $10, but was afraid to ask for it, and in a moment of madness tried to murder her for her money.

FRANCE HAS GLOBE

TROTTER OF THE AIR

The Amazing Journey of an Aeroplane From Paris to St. Petersburg and Back

Says the Pall Mall Gazette's Parisian correspondent: Once more French prestige has shown itself in the air. The Tricolor has been borne, over an astonishing stretch of country, from Paris to St. Petersburg and back again, passing through Berlin and Warsaw, and thence by way of Stockholm, Copenhagen, Hamburg and the Hague.

It is an amazing performance, a tribute to French youth, audacity and endurance. Loud were the cheers and large the crowd which welcomed Brindejone des Moulins when he paid a sort of official visit to the Excelsior this afternoon.

As in London, the press has played a great part in aviation, and its encouragements, moral and material, have been a great aid in its development, at the cost of so much personal intrepidity and positive heroism. If the future of Germany is on the water, the "present" of France is in the air.

Perhaps the most wonderful fact is the time kept by the young aviator. He carried out his programme almost to the minute, stopping here and arriving there as he willed, notwithstanding air currents, fog or other adverse conditions.

To arrive at the end of a 3,000-mile aerial journey on the day named shows to what pitch of progress the aeroplane has attained. And Brindejone, telegraphing from Copenhagen, five days ago, said: "Shall be at Villacoublay at 4 o'clock Wednesday; shall lunch at Compiègne." He kept his word and his trysts.

Thousands of hands applauded him when his monoplane, like a monstrous bird, appeared in the grey sky above the hangars, and alighted with a magnificent vol-plane at the feet of the spectators.

Triple Triumph. Brindejone's feat is a triple triumph for France, and this point was emphasized in the speeches—a triumph for the constructor Morane, for the Gnome motor, and for the plucky pilot. "Notre premier globe-trotter de l'atmosphère," Paris calls him, a little quaintly. He is certainly the holder of the world's aerial record for distance. And the youngster has not yet performed his military service!

His flight to Warsaw was the most sensational of all, for it was made in the teeth of a storm. When he alighted from his machine, half-dazed at the speed at which he had travelled, his first impression was that of having come 150 kilometres. In reality the day's reckoning was ten times that distance.

It was not surprising that his sense of time and space was a little vague; he had flown at the terrific speed of 215 kilometres an hour. When he realized that, he realized that he had won the Pommery cup. He was encouraged to go on.

City of Elephants.

The next stage was much slower, because of headwinds. And he was mortally cold; he suffered in his hands and feet. The landing at Dvinsk was most difficult. There was no clear ground. Finally, he came down in the midst of horses, cows, calves, pigs and sheep in a field. "I had no idea there would be so many animals in so restricted a space," he said, in recounting his adventures in the Excelsior. He was so fagged that he had lost all of his illusions above St. Petersburg. He thought the city full of immense buildings, in the form of elephants, and though travelling at 1,500 metres above the earth, he was afraid of hitting them. There were festivities of every kind in the Russian administrative capital, which he discovered to be a very fine city.

He arrived before his valise at Stockholm, and had to borrow a dinner-jacket to go to the banquet in his honor. And then there was the arrival in Paris and the emotion of the moment when he was carried shoulder high by his compatriots. Happy hero of the air!

ART TREASURE IN CELLAR.

Fifteen years ago a priceless piece of Greek sculpture, the bust of a female child, said to be 1,000 years old, was stolen from the National Museum in Athens. It has now been recovered by the Baltimore police after digging in the cellar of a Greek confectioner.

THE VINDICATION OF

REV. GEO. JACKSON

GRAPHIC PEN PICTURE OF HERESY TRIAL

Which Resulted in Large Majority for Well Known Divine; Leader of Dissenters

The long-anticipated Didsbury controversy is over, and the picture that remains in the mind is that of a thick-set figure standing with uplifted hand on the tribune, and in stentorian voice proclaiming: "I stand in defence of the faith I pledged in my ordination vows," says the London Daily News and Leader. The sturdy frame, the set face with its fringe of beard and whisker and the shaven and uncompromising upper lip, the white bow tie under the chin, and the blue ribbon on the coat lapel, all conspired to mark out the Rev. G. Armstrong Bennetts as the very type and model of the old-time Methodist preacher.

His opposition to the motions, which finally vindicated the Rev. George Jackson was endorsed by precisely seven votes in an assembly of six hundred. Mr. Armstrong Bennetts' speech was the last contribution to the discussion and the only one which at any time threatened the admirable temper in which the proceedings had all day been conducted.

However, the conference was disposed to be indulgent, even to an irreconcilable whose convictions were unquestionably as sincere as his manner was occasionally provocative.

M. P.'s Proffer Assistance.

The only difficulty was in arriving at a form of motion which would have some prospect of unanimous adoption. Members of parliament—Sir John Randles and Mr. Middlebrook—hastened to proffer assistance. But it fell to two ex-presidents, the Revs. John Hornabrook and Henry Haigh, to gain the approval of 593 of the 600 delegates for a motion in the following terms:

"That the representative session of the conference having considered the designation of the Rev. George Jackson to the staff of Didsbury College sees no reason to make any further recommendation to the pastoral session."

The meaning of this is that the Didsbury controversy is to all intents and purposes closed. Mr. Armstrong Bennetts may or may not persist with his charge of heresy at the pastoral session next week. If he does his faithful seven will not be at his beck, for some of them are laymen, and their day ends to-morrow.

Of the leaders of the attack, Mr. J. W. Laycock was the more effective. Dr. Coley—though for the most part his long address was in admirable taste—made one or two false moves. His objection was not to Mr. Jackson, nor even to Mr. Jackson's beliefs, but to the probable effect of his teaching on the Didsbury students.

"An Unsafe Teacher."

He was an unsafe teacher, said the doctor. He combined the premises of the new theology with the conclusions of the old. In tone and temper he was unfitted for the position at Didsbury. He was too angular, careless how deeply he hurt or how gravely he shocked; he displayed a truculent rashness.

In the statement of his views, Mr. Laycock went further than his predecessor. He attacked not merely Mr. Jackson, for delivering the lecture, but the whole of Methodism indiscriminately, for countenancing it. The Methodist Book Room for publishing it and the ministers of Connecticut for sympathizing with such new doctrines.

It was the old-fashioned Methodism fighting gallantly, but hopelessly, to thwart the inevitable progress of thought.

Then Mr. Jackson came to the tribune—a little pale, but perfectly collected. He entered on the 40 minutes' speech that broke the altogether creditable silence he has observed since his return from Canada.

Mr. Jackson on His Record. At the outset he disposed of any hope that he would out the Gordian knot by voluntarily resigning the Didsbury appointment. That, said Mr. Jackson, would simply mean "Methodism running away from the issue, I am here neither to retire nor to retreat." As far as his own defence went the tutor-designate had an easy task. "After all," he said, "a man must be judged by the whole of what he has done. Were his eighteen years in the Edinburgh mission to count for nothing as a vindication of his evangelical faith? Or his missions in the past with Gipsy Smith, or in the coming year as the president of the conference? Point by point the audience gave subdued evidence of its feelings, and when at the end of an hour Mr. Jackson descended from the platform the conference was ready almost to a man to support him by its vote.

Cabinet Minister's Tribute. Perhaps of greater influence than some of the speeches was a letter from Mr. Walter Runciman, which Mr. Gerald France, M. P., read to the conference. "I like Jackson," wrote the president of the Board of Agriculture, "but in this controversy I am thinking more of our young men and of the young persons who have to preach to them than I am of Jackson, and for the conference to declare in any shape or form against him will compel many of us who care far more for the religious welfare of our sons and our daughters and all their contemporaries, rich or poor, than we do for anything else in the world, to look to other means than Methodist preaching for the conversion and strengthening of these intelligent youngsters."

"They are as worth converting and keeping as are the fervent but uneducated, and they cannot be kept if the only thing we have to say to them as a church is: 'Jackson wrote and thought as an honest man with an honest mind, but Methodism cannot allow its tutors to think. Faith is inconsistent with the use of the intellect in the Methodist Church.' That is a declaration of cowardice, and would mean complete disaster."

The placards had told us daily that we were to see a "heresy hunt" today. To-morrow they will, doubtless, tell us we have seen it.

TURPENCE ON THE CLOTH. The old farmer had come into Blackpool to see the King. He had the true Lancashire dread of being "done" (says the Manchester Guardian), and besought a friend to recommend him a cheap and reliable restaurant. This was not difficult.

A few hours later the friend met the old man. "Well, how did you get on?"

"Man, I'd grand dinner for terpence, and I found turpence on the tablecloth."

Relief For Rupture Without Operation

No Big Expense—No Time Lost From Work
 No Misery—Causing Belts or Leg-Straps
 60 Days' Trial to Prove It

Operation for rupture would hardly ever be heard of if it weren't for the mischief done by elastic and spring trusses.

Mighty few people ever have to be operated on when first ruptured.

But wearing makeshift trusses year after year is sooner or later almost sure to make work for the surgeon.

You know that from your own experience you know you're worse now than a year ago—probably getting worse all the time.

If you keep on that way, how long will it be before you'll have to undergo a dangerous and expensive operation?

Isn't you willing to let us prove—by a sixty-day demonstration—how you can save yourself from all that?

Especially when you can make this sixty-day test without having to risk a penny?

Won't Cost You a Cent If It Doesn't Stand the Test

Here is something—a guaranteed rupture holder—which has saved thousands of people from ever having to be operated on.

It has so thoroughly proved its merits that we are willing to send it on 60 days' trial.

We'll make it especially for your case—make it to your measure—and practically lend it to you just for a test.

If it doesn't stop your rupture from coming out or bothering you in any way, no matter how hard you work or strain—if it doesn't prove every claim we make—then you can send it back and it won't cost you a single penny.

Will You Spend Two Cents to Find Out?

We don't want you to send any money. All we ask you to spend is the price of a two-cent stamp, which will get you a free book—that will tell you everything you want to know.

It shows how our guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Clute Automatic Managing Truss—is so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents.

NEWS OF PROVINCIAL TOWNS

ROSSLAND

Willis A. Grougaze was instantly killed last Tuesday in the War Eagle stope on the 800-foot level. John White, who was at work with him, escaped with slight injuries, and was taken to the hospital. The small bone of the left leg was broken and the ankle sprained.

Timbering was in progress at the place of the dreadful happening, and the sets had just reached this point, and preparations were in progress to raise the next set, when, without any warning, a big rock, weighing several tons, slid from the hanging wall and killed Mr. Grougaze instantly. James McGregor, provincial inspector of mines, together with Thomas Graham, the chief inspector, and Superintendent Purcell had been viewing the work but a short time previous and had been standing where the rock fell. Everything looked to be in order, and work was proceeding with what, to them, appeared to be perfect safety.

Mr. Grougaze leaves a wife and two children, a daughter, aged seven, and a son of four years. This fatal day was his birthday as well as that of his little son, and at his home preparations had been made for a little birthday party. Mr. Grougaze was 34 years of age and a native of Staffordshire, England. He has two brothers and a father here, the latter and one residing at Columbia Gardens. He ceased to be a man greatly esteemed in the community, was prominent in church work and deeply devoted to his family. For a period he left the mines and engaged in the real estate business, with an office on Columbia avenue. He was a member of the Moose lodge.

CHILLIWACK

At a recent meeting of the Chilliwack Automobile club it was unanimously agreed that the time is now ripe for the building of a bridge across the Fraser river at a point near the present Rosedale-Agassiz ferry crossing. The traffic between the Chilliwack and Agassiz valleys has been increasing very rapidly the past few years, and it would increase tenfold were there the access to either valley by way of a traffic bridge. Agassiz valley in particular would be benefited by a crossing of this kind, and the now confined residents would be enabled to get out of the district by other channels than that of the railway.

Although the local automobile club is taking the initiative in requesting the government to construct this bridge crossing, other organizations such as the boards of trade and progressive associations of the districts are similarly interested. The place suggested for the bridge is at a point below the present ferry crossing at or near where the telephone cable was first laid. At that point good high banks are to be had which are free from erosion by the river currents. The span would be in the neighborhood of 1,400 or 1,600 feet, and the cost well within the powers of the government exchequer. Copies of a resolution passed by the Chilliwack Automobile Club have been forwarded to nearly every board of trade in the lower mainland, with a request for co-operation in the movement. The provincial and Dominion representatives each have copies with the request that they place it before their governments. As this particular public work is almost entirely within the jurisdiction of the provincial government, S. A. Cawley, M. P. for Chilliwack, is expected to place the matter before the House at the next assembly and push it to a successful issue. Mr. Manson, M. P. for Dewdney, and Mr. Lucas, M. P. for Yale, are expected to co-operate with Mr. Cawley, and work in earnest for this bridge.

The only crossing now provided between Agassiz and Rosedale is by way of the McGrath ferry. The Messrs. McGrath have improved their service to a point where there can be no objections made to it in so far as a ferry service is concerned. They are at the service of the public at any and all times, and teams with loaded wagons, droves of cattle or sheep, and automobiles and passengers are conveyed across the Fraser at that point for a very nominal charge, but a ferry crossing is only a ferry crossing and never can supply the means of intercommunication that a traffic bridge can. It is never expected to do so.

HIS LAST WISH

Not a sound could be heard in the court room. The prisoner had just been condemned to death. "You have a legal right to express a last wish," said the judge, "and, if it is possible, it will be granted."

The prisoner, who was a barber, gave the judge an appealing look as he replied: "I should like just one more to be allowed to shave the district attorney."—The Argonaut.

VERNON

"For the purpose of inspecting" the experimental stretch of road which is being macadamized by the government under the direction of Road Superintendent Hamilton Lang, last week a party of prominent citizens motored down to Kelowna with Mr. Lang to the scene of operations. This is situated about a mile from the city limits along the main Vernon road. The method employed is more ambitious, and incidentally more costly than has yet been attempted in the valley. Instead of the usual somewhat makeshift methods of merely grading and covering the road with a layer of gravel or shale rock, methods more closely conforming with the recognized macadamizing process are being used. The government rock crushing plant and steam roller have been brought into requisition and the material is being graded into different sizes. After careful leveling a heavy layer of the coarsest material is first laid and well rolled. Over this is then spread a covering of rock of a medium grade and again rolled. The finer gravel is well worked into this surface and after repeated wettings and rollings a road surface is produced which is second to none in the Dominion. The process is expensive compared with past practices. Cost figures are not yet available, but Mr. Lang is confident that the extra care used will fully justify itself and prove in the long run much more economical.

The party also paid a visit to South Okanagan, where the road is being straightened and widened. A feature of this undertaking is the construction of three concrete bridges which are a great improvement on the old type of wooden structures.

The Vernon fire department has organized a Labor Day celebration for September 1, which will eclipse all former celebrations in the number and value of prizes, and diversity of sports. The grand parade of floats, vehicles drawn by horses, automobiles, motorcycles, bicycles and fire department apparatus decorated gaily, led by three brass bands, is to be a big feature of the day.

The sports committee has arranged for basketball, lacrosse and football matches played by the best teams of the district. Firemen's races, 100 yards, hub and reel contests, with eight men to a team, handicap race between horse chemical and auto, chemical, and a ladder contest, are to be features of what will be, essentially, a fire fiddler gala day. The brigades from Kamloops, Revelstoke, Armstrong, Penticton and Kelowna have been invited to participate, and arrangements are being made with the C. P. R. for single track and automobile races. Kamloops, Revelstoke, Penticton and intermediate towns, the hearty co-operation of the council, various fraternal societies and individual gifts of citizens assures the most substantial list of prizes ever put forth for a Labor Day celebration in Vernon.

Fred Cummins, secretary, and S. A. Shaford, chairman of the joint committee, are putting forth strenuous efforts to bring in teams and visitors from every city in the interior, conveniently adjacent.

CHASE

Gordon Frazer, the energetic secretary of the Martin Prairie Farmers' union, is acting around these days getting out prize lists and making other preparations for the first fair at Pritchard. It is billed to come off on Friday, September 19. The members of the institute are doing their best to keep the fact advertised. They have a few thousand envelopes printed with reminders of the fair and are using them in their private and business correspondence. They are all talking it up and working it up, and it is bound to be a good show.

There is getting to be a large number of progressive farmers in the country around Pritchard. The number is growing larger every year, and every day they are becoming more progressive. They have horses and cattle and chickens that are well bred, some of them real aristocrats as chickens. They have made up their minds that it costs no more to feed a good animal than a scrub and they are going right after the best blood.

A. J. and Geo. A. Lammer and B. W. Sawyer bought a million and a half of logs from the Sovereign Lumber Company. The logs are mostly cedar, but unlike most of the inland cedar, they are quite sound, without the usual hollow butt.

Three mowers running ten hours a day for three weeks have about finished the work of shearing the meadows on the Chase ranch. Stacking has been going on at the same time and as a result of the steady fine weather the hay will go up in excellent shape.

Having been successful in making zinc spelter in an electric furnace with a capacity of 250 pounds in 24 hours, and at the same time receiving excellent prospects that the new method of obtaining zinc spelter will prove successful on a larger and more extensive scale, E. Dedolph is in the city with a view of carrying on further and more extensive experiments.

Mr. Dedolph and Professor Stensfield, metallurgical professor of McGill University, Montreal, after experimenting for considerable time in the laboratories of McGill University, discovered the new process. Mr. Dedolph has every confidence that the new electric process will prove to be successful in obtaining zinc economically and in sufficiently large quantities to give a new impetus to the zinc industry. He is now working on the undertaking in conjunction with the Dominion department of mines, and he expects that in a short time he will have the electric smelter in Fairview near the Canadian Pacific railway's shipyards in operation, where extensive work will be carried along.

Mr. Dedolph has been working on the zinc problem for years and describes it as one of the most difficult problems that metallurgists have to solve. Practically all distinguished metallurgists have at some time or another wrestled with the problem in some manner.

Mr. Dedolph has a patent process of obtaining zinc oxide direct from the zinc problem for years and describes it as one of the most difficult problems that metallurgists have to solve. Practically all distinguished metallurgists have at some time or another wrestled with the problem in some manner.

The Dominion department of mines has obtained the consent of the provincial government to use the Fairview smelter, and are co-operating the advancement of the new process for the obtaining of zinc.

KAMLOOPS

That Kamloops is destined to become one of the biggest grain growing centres of the west is evidenced by the fact that on Roseshill alone there is sufficient wheat raised to warrant the erection of a grain elevator and a large capacity flour mill.

At a recent meeting of the board of trade the following figures were produced showing what is being done in this section of the country, and demonstrating the old told story that that some day will cause produce buyers from all sides to cast eager eyes in this direction.

These figures show what is being done in the past year or so in Roseshill and the produce raised:

142 young cattle at $25..... 4,570
 344 pigs at $10..... 3,440
 415 horses at $100..... 41,500
 50 sheep at $10..... 500
 2,000 tons grain at $20..... 40,000
 Annual butter production 72,000..... 24,000
 Hay, 500 tons..... 5,000
 Grain hay, 500 tons..... 5,000
 Four threshing machines..... 2,700
 Sawmill..... 3,000

Total..... $159,610

Roseshill farmers are anticipating a bumper year and a bumper harvest, and whereas about 2,000 tons of grain has been thrashed in, say, the last year, that quantity will be largely exceeded this season, and as years go on, and as more land is placed under cultivation season after season, Roseshill will be the granary of the interior.

WARSHIPS MAY FLY AND DIVE

The other day it was announced that Great Britain was about to lead the way with an oil-driven dreadnought. It is worth noting, however, that Great Britain has other ideas in regard to warships that she is rapidly putting into practice. One of the most amazing is the revolution of the class of boats known as destroyers, which may soon be able to dive and fly as well as sail.

The destroyer is doomed shortly to disappear, or, if you like, she will in future be invested with the power to dive. The types, at any rate, will be amalgamated. Is a matter of perfecting the internal combustion engine for marine purposes. Afterwards the submarine may attain the power of flying as well, and we shall have a ship possessing all the qualities of the wild duck, except that of sitting on eggs and reproducing herself. This forecast is made by Gerard Flenness, who writes of the work of the submarine in the Pall Mall Magazine.

"It is the darkest hour, the hour before the dawn. The hostile fleet lies in its harbor, behind the boom and under the shelter of the forts. It has suffered damage in an encounter with a superior force, but is still in being. The beams of the searchlights wheel and cross and sweep up and down; the guarding destroyers howl bitter and thither in the outer harbor. Or a sudden there is a rush from seaward of black hulls and flaming funnels. No concealment is attempted; it would be useless. The attackers creep, unperceived, near enough to make their rush. In an instant the scene is ablaze with quick-firing guns, hurling shells on friend and foe alike.

The assailants hold on. One boat after another sinks, but ever fresh squadrons rush in to the attack. A dozen, twenty, thirty boats will be well lost if the attempt succeed.

"The boat which protects the harbor mouth is made of huge barrels of timber, wound and bound with stout steel hawsers. From its lower edge hang torpedo nets. It would be vain to charge it. The P. L. Phylomene years ago charged the boom at Portsmouth for an experiment, and got over it. It must be blown up. A rending crash, followed by another, proclaims the failure of the trusted defence. The boom is in splinters; the destroyers which wrecked it actually make their way to safety amid the smoke and confusion caused by the explosions. Now the fast breaking dawn discloses a number of slim poles cutting the surface of the water. Again the crash of the fire breaks out. It is futile, but the nerves of the gunners will not stand inaction. The defending destroyers charge the submarines, trying to knock away their periscopes and to explode mines close to their hulls. Here and there they succeed. A whale-like snout is thrown out of the water, and sinks again forever. There is a whirr of wings overhead. The is a whirr of wings overhead. The aeroplanes are up. So, fountains of water are spouting from where their dropped bombs explode. But above all the din there arises a dull, muffled roar—a second, a third. Some of the battleships are hit. One torpedo which missed its mark destroys the casement of the dock in which the flagship is lying for repairs. Worst of all, the fleet has lost its sense of security. It must go out and fight at any

TO-DAY IN CANADIAN HISTORY

The Rt. Rev. William Wilcox Perin, Bishop of Willemsen, long the Bishop of British Columbia and one of the best known churchmen in Canada, was born sixty-five years ago today, August 11, 1848, the son of Thomas Perin, of Gloucestershire. He was educated at King's College, London, and Trinity College, Oxford, and was ordained in 1879. For eleven years he served as curate of St. Mary's in Southampton, and then became vicar of St. Luke's in the same city. Twenty years ago he came to Canada as bishop of British Columbia, and during his long residence in Victoria he attained a foremost position among the leaders of the church in the Dominion. Upon returning to England Bishop Perin did not lose interest in Canada, and he has usually been among those present at any gathering of Canadians in London. In a dispatch several months ago the bishop was reported to have urged the advertising of religious services in the daily press. The bishopric of British Columbia was established in 1855, soon after the beginning of the gold rush, with the Rev. George Hills as first bishop. The late Baroness Burdett-Coutts contributed $75,000 for the endowment of the new bishopric. Next April will mark the centenary of the birth of the famous philanthropist, and the church in British Columbia will doubtless observe the anniversary of its benefactor.

Dr. Charles Henry Fowler, famous as clergyman, educator and missionary, was born in Burford, Ont., seventy-six years ago today. After serving several years as president of Northwestern University, he organized the Peking and Hankow universities in China and other institutions. He died in 1905.

given the name of Hamilton, after its founder, while a number of the streets were named after members of his family—Catherine, Hannah, Maria, Augusta, James and John. The founder of the town was a public-spirited citizen, and gave to the city the Court House square, the Wood market and Gore park. Hamilton grew slowly but surely, and in 1846 assumed the dignity of a city. It is now a municipality of nearly 100,000 people and one of the principal manufacturing centres of the Dominion. An industrial exposition and a reunion of Hamilton "old boys" will be features of centennial week.

Although Hamilton was the real founder of the town, there were a number of settlers in the vicinity long before his arrival. Probably the first was Richard Beasley, who carried on a flourishing traffic with the Indians.

SCRAP BOOK.

"Birmingham, of Canada, Celebrates Centennial."

Hamilton, sixth in size among the cities of Canada and often called "the Birmingham of the Dominion," invites the world to be its guest during the week beginning to-day. The busy, bustling city on the beautiful bay at the western end of Lake Ontario was born just a hundred years ago, and, in order that the centennial may be properly marked, Hamilton will for this week lay aside its business cares and devote itself to the entertainment of such portion of the world's population as responds to its invitation.

A hundred years ago Britain and the United States were at war, and the tide of battle flowed up and down the Niagara frontier. Among the citizens of that section was George Hamilton. He was young and he had a wife and children to support and protect, and he decided that the Niagara neighborhood was not healthful. So he moved with his family and his goods and chattels to a pleasant spot on the western extremity of Lake Ontario and there laid out a town.

The community thus founded was

What is declared to be the true crown of thorns consecrated by the blood of Jesus is still in existence, and to-day, as on the eleventh of August of every year, the festival of the Crown of Thorns will be observed in the Parisian chapel built for its reception nearly seven centuries ago.

For many centuries the crown of martyrdom was kept in Constantinople. When the crescent seemed about to triumph over the Cross, Emperor Baldwin II. sent the precious relic to St. Louis, his cousin, then king of France. From Constantinople the crown was sent to Venice, and thence, in 1239, to France. It is recorded that the king and his brother, Robert of Artois, both bareheaded, met the party carrying the crown several leagues beyond Sens. The relic was kept in a cathedral in Sens for two years, until the completion of the chapel in Paris. There for centuries the transfer of the crown of thorns to France has been celebrated in the chapel on the eleventh of August.

To-day is also the festival of St. Susanna, the patron saint of women.

GENERAL FELIX DIAZ ARRIVES IN VICTORIA

Secretary Says Mission to Japan is Purely One of Courtesy

General Felix Diaz, special envoy of Mexico to Japan, and his party spent a brief hour and a half in the city this afternoon, arriving on the 1:15 boat from Seattle, and leaving at 2:45 on the Vancouver boat for the Terminal City, to wait the departure of the Empress of Russia on Wednesday for the Orient.

The general, whose nationality is clearly marked in his appearance, speaks little English, and his secretary, Senor Romano, conducted the brief conversation with the Times representative. He said that although much had been made of the trip from its alleged political significance by the American newspapers they were merely going to make a courtesy call on the Mikado in the custom of all civilized nations. The relations between Mexico and Japan ought to be bettered by the visit which the general was making. He did not know how long they would be in the island empire, the period being left to their hosts.

speaks some English, and Senorita Maria Ortega. They decline to discuss the possibility of any arrangements intervening to cancel the proposed trip, although the secretary guardedly said that they would say "if circumstances did not intervene."

The secretary explained that two suites of rooms had been engaged at the Vancouver hotel, so they were obliged to leave Victoria in a hurried manner.

Much interest attaches to this trip of Diaz to Japan, because of the critical relations between Mexico and the United States, and because of the intimate relations between Mexico and Japan.

General Diaz told the American interviewers that his trip is solely one for pleasure, but the diplomats and the general public do not take much stock in that theory, especially because the candidate for the presidency of Mexico is to be accompanied by two distinguished Japanese diplomats.

GOES TO STAND TRIAL

Man Who Arrived in March Taken to Butte, Montana, on White Slave Charge

An alleged white slave case, which dates back to indictments filed in Butte, Montana, and which came into the local arena with the appearance of a passenger on the S. S. Umattila in March last, will reach its final stage this week in a trial in Butte. It has been quietly completed in Victoria in the last few months without any one save the immigration men learning of it.

The inspectors who met the Umattila noticed during March a case of a well-spoken man of agreeable appearance, about whom there was something which they suspected. Having nothing concrete against him, however, he was allowed to land. He worked subsequently as a bartender in a downtown hotel. Correspondence with the American authorities, followed after the receipt of a photograph of a man wanted on a warrant for bringing a woman from Colorado to Montana. He was identified, and on Thursday he consented to return voluntarily to the United States, after being confronted with certified copies of the indictments. A deputy sheriff was waiting when the vessel stopped at the Canadian Pacific pier in Seattle and he was arrested, the accused being now on his way to Butte to stand trial. His explanation he offered to local officers when confronted with the indictments was that there was a conspiracy to ruin him.

LOCAL NEWS

Pay at Car Doors.—The pay-as-you-enter system was put into effect all over the city street car lines to-day, which means that henceforth car tickets and money will be the passenger's first consideration when stepping up to board any of the cars. The Victoria Lumber Company of Chemainus is already a running concern and has started logging. The latter company has an agreement with the railroad to ship a certain number of cars outward every day, which has not gone into effect as yet.

Drowned While Bathing.—A sad accident, the exact particulars of which will probably never come to light, occurred recently at Queen Charlotte Hollingsworth, at the time living with her sister, Mrs. F. D. Rice, whose husband is surveying in the vicinity of Tule river. Miss Hollingsworth went out bathing alone; someone heard her call, but when help arrived she was not to be seen. It is not known what happened, but it is assumed that she may have had a cramp or got beyond her depth. She was highly esteemed and leaves a large circle of friends. The funeral took place on July 31 at Queen Charlotte City, a profusion of beautiful flowers and wreaths covering the casket, and a great number of people attending the services.

DEFICIT TO BE MET

Chairman of Carnival Committee Speaks of Expenses of Features for Festival Week

"The committee has found itself called upon to find $3,500 more than was anticipated as the cost, and this will make a deficit," said Alderman Cuthbert, chairman of the citizens' committee, when summing up the Carnival.

"The naval and military tournament fell down at the last moment, costing $1,500, and forcing the aviation engagement to fill in, and arrangements made only on July 25. We spent nearly $2,000 in the entertainment of the staffs of H. M. S. New Zealand and U. S. S. West Virginia. We look to the three hundred persons and firms who have not contributed to help us in making up the loss which we expect."

"It is not to be anticipated that the same set of citizens can again give of their time to organize a movement lasting over eleven months, but if the citizens, who must be the final judges, wish the carnival to become a fixture, they must enable the committee to make such arrangements that it can be carried on under less difficult conditions than the events of last week. We have met criticism and have done the best which was possible with the money available. The American visitors say we gave as much entertainment as is afforded across the line for $50,000."

"The committee will meet shortly, to close up the books, but will, meanwhile, make a preliminary report in the accounts which are outstanding. Our limited finances forced us to do everything on the cheapest possible lines, and we had much work done voluntarily which is paid for elsewhere. The citizens should remember this fact."

Alderman Cuthbert said that thanks should especially be given to those who filled offices on the committee, those who worked on the various committees and those of the public who lent assistance.

PICKPOCKETS HELD.

Two Suspects Here From Across the Line Are in Custody as Vagrants.

In the police court dock this morning were two men from the other side of the line who have police records over there. These were Frank Taylor, a colored man, and Frank Deyot, a smooth-looking young white. Detective Murray on Saturday by reason of their suspicious actions among the crowds, leaving or getting on street cars. The younger one was just about to put his hand in the pocket of a passenger getting on a car when the car moved off before he could accomplish his purpose and so constitute a charge against them.

They were at once arrested on charges of vagrancy, however, and on this pleaded not guilty to-day. Remands were granted at the request of Chief Langley, as the police are making inquiries about them. They will be brought up again on Wednesday.

Thomas Etwood, on remand on a vagrancy charge, was again remanded until to-morrow, it being understood that he is willing to leave the city at once. He has done time both here and in Vancouver, and was arrested on the general charge last week so as to hold him out of the way until the carnival was over.

RIVALRY RUNS HIGH

Charge of Assault by Tally-ho Driver Against Employees of Another is Dismissed.

Rivalry among the owners and "spielers" of tally-ho vehicles at the ferry dock runs very high, and is responsible for a good deal of trouble to the police on traffic duty at that point, as well as furnishing a lot of grist for the police court mill.

No sooner had the difficulties as to the stands of the horse-drawn and motor-driven vehicles been settled, after several hours of the magistrate's time had been taken up, than an altercation between two of the rivals brought all the chief actors back to the court either as parties or as witnesses.

To-day the magistrate heard the evidence offered for and against the allegation that Allan Caldwell, owner of a big tally-ho, had assaulted Gerald Leshman, chauffeur and "spieler" for W. J. Taylor's big motor sight-seeing car. The affair took place on Tuesday last just after the arrival of the Vancouver ferry, and as the various men were competing for fares.

Leshman's story was that he was standing beside the car talking to two ladies about taking the drive around the city when Caldwell came from across the street. He asked the latter to go back and "rustle by his own rig."

When he turned to resume his talk to the ladies, Caldwell struck him on the back of the neck, he said.

This story was corroborated by W. J. Taylor and Albert Cruickshanks. The latter was on the other side of Belleville street at the time, and when asked to explain why he thought something was going to happen, as he had said, he replied "generally always something does happen when the respective crews get to talking."

The defendant stated that he was on the dock side of the street to get one of his tally-hos started off and was talking to the two ladies mentioned when Leshman "ran up like an Indian," and said "Don't take this tally-ho; it tips over." I put out three fingers to push him away."

Earl Nicholson and E. Spilker bore out this version of the affair by their testimony.

Magistrate Jay said it was an unfortunate thing that these rival cars could not get along together. While there might have been a trivial assault it was nothing to bother the court with and the case would be dismissed.

J. J. Shalloos, president of the Board of Trade, and Mrs. Shalloos, left yesterday for a two month visit to England.

Archbishop Casey, of Vancouver, arrived in the city this morning to be the guest of Bishop McDonald for a few days. Accompanied by J. D. O'Connell he motored to Alberni to-day.

Miss Dorothy Davis, who has run a very successful tea-shop at Cordova Bay for the past two months, is opening a branch business at Malahat Beach at the end of the week, and is leaving to the personal charge of the tea-room there.

MAKES GREAT SWIM.

New York, Aug. 11.—Edward J. Snyder, 22 years old, Sunday swam 15 miles from West Twentieth street, Coney Island, to Brooklyn Bridge, in six hours and forty-five minutes. His feat is without parallel in the annals of sport as no boy of his age has ever swum a distance approaching the length he traversed.

Changing the English over-hand stroke to the breast stroke, and from that to the crawl, the lad did not show the slightest sign of fatigue.

He left the water apparently as fresh as when he entered it.

KANSAS WEATHER NOT GOOD FOR VEGETATION

Frightful Heat for Past Week Broken by 6 to 12 Degrees Drop.

Kansas City, Aug. 11.—Light local showers which brought little benefit to vegetation, fell to-day in widely separated sections of Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Kansas got scarcely any rain save in the northwest and southwest, and those places only local falls of from .01 to .09 inches. The chances for more rain over Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma in the next 24 hours, the official weather observer says, were very slight.

The past week of frightful heat, which every day has driven the thermometer to maximums of 94 to 114 degrees, was broken to-day by a drop in temperature averaging from 6 to 12 degrees.

LADYSMITH LOSES WELL KNOWN MAN BY DROWNING.

Nanaimo, B. C., Aug. 11.—Thomas McCoy, a well-known resident of Ladysmith, was drowned here Friday, his body being recovered at a late hour Friday night, a short distance from shore.

He had been using a pair of water wings, which for some cause or another had become disarranged, from which it is inferred that the wings had slipped down on his body and held him under the water.

The deceased was a native of Lanarkshire, Scotland, 25 years old, and is survived by his mother and a brother, both of whom reside in Ladysmith.

SAN FRANCISCO SALOONS CLOSE NOW AT 2 A. M.
